Rensselaer Brown Bag Workshop: Active Learning Examples to Keep Your Students Engaged

A very simple definition of active learning is when students participate in any type of course activity other than watching or listening to a lecture. Faculty at Rensselaer work hard to incorporate other activities into their lectures to promote student participation and engagement with the course content. Here at Rensselaer we are also encouraging the flipped classroom environment which supports additional learning activities both inside and outside of the classroom.

If you are interested in hearing more about various active learning exercises that you may be able to implement into your course, then this workshop is for you. Please join us to discuss the practice of active learning, the benefits, and some of the more popular active learning exercises.

This workshop will be held on Wednesday, October 7th from 12:00 pm - 1:00 pm in Rensselaer Union (RU), Conference Room 3202. Please bring a laptop or mobile device.

Maureen Fodera (Office of Undergraduate Education) will be presenting this workshop.

To register, click the following link: Active Learning Workshop Information and Registration.

Please register by Friday, October 2nd. Space is limited.