Is CoM planning to get a dictionary?

A dictionary (that is hyperlinked) could be of great benefit to all the parts of the city, and would be very helpful when explaining fuel cells with words that are not common for middle schoolers to know off-hand. By having a dictionary, concepts could be explained using words that could be hyperlinked to the dictionary, instead of having to try to involve a definition in the concept script. This would also be good because overlap of harder words in different areas of CoM could be defined in one spot, rather than defined in multiple times throughout CoM.