I like the idea of a dictionary. Currently we have roll over style definitions. A quick example is the toaster in the Mayors House.

Tell me more about how you think the dictionary would work. When you click on a word do you get the definition or do you get the whole dictionary open to the page with that definition? Is the dictionary an item in your backpack that you can page through at any time?

I'm also working on a hangman game right now. Do you have 8 to 10 words that are commonly used in discussing fuel cells that I can add to the game? The hint for each word will be the definition.
