PART 1.  THE FACULTY OF RENSSELAER

1.1  INTRODUCTION

The Rensselaer Faculty Handbook presents Faculty rights, privileges, responsibilities and related procedures including the rules and regulations that affect Faculty appointment, promotion and tenure status at Rensselaer. The Handbook applies to Rensselaer Faculty as defined in Section 1.4.1 at all Rensselaer locations, unless noted otherwise. The Handbook is reviewed annually in accord with the terms of The Faculty Senate Constitution. Handbook revisions require a majority vote of the Faculty Senate, concurrence of the Provost, and the approval of the President of the Institute. While there are policies and procedures pertaining to the Faculty in their capacity as employees of Rensselaer, this Handbook addresses only those that pertain to the Faculty in their role as Faculty. Institute-wide academic policies are the responsibility of the Office of the Provost. Other policy documents are available from the Division of Human Resources, the Office of Research Administration and Finance and other Rensselaer entities. To the extent that these affect Faculty, it is the obligation of the Provost to maintain up to date copies of these documents or links to these copies on the official website of the Office of the Provost.

1.2  INSTITUTE PURPOSES AND OBJECTIVES

Rensselaer develops broadly educated men and women who will be able to exert constructive leadership in society and to contribute to human welfare. Both for the enrichment of Rensselaer and for the greatest contribution to society, Rensselaer seeks to nurture an environment for Faculty and students from a variety of geographical, intellectual, ethnic, economic, and cultural backgrounds.

Founded in 1824, by Stephen Van Rensselaer, the Institute was established “for purposes of instructing persons, who may apply themselves, in the application of science to the common purposes of life.” Rensselaer is the first degree granting technological institute in the English-speaking world. Rensselaer educates the leaders of tomorrow for technologically based careers - we celebrate discovery, and the responsible application of technology, to create knowledge and global prosperity. Today, Rensselaer provides a vital and expanding infrastructure to facilitate its mission and the contributions and creativity of its students, Faculty and employees.

Rensselaer strives continuously to attract and nurture a Faculty of outstanding scholarship and educative ability and will work to provide those material facilities and opportunities needed for optimal achievement and intellectual growth. Central to the purpose of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute are scholarship, education and service.
Scholarship. Scholarship includes research undertaken at Rensselaer to discover new knowledge, solve problems, stimulate a spirit of inquiry and educate students. Scholarship may also include significant contributions to the creative arts.

Education. Rensselaer provides educational programs of distinction at all academic levels in architecture, engineering, science, management, and the humanities and social sciences.

Service. Rensselaer has an obligation to utilize its abilities to the betterment of the Rensselaer community, the various professions it serves and society as a whole.

1.3 INSTITUTE ORGANIZATION

1.3.1 The Corporation and Board of Trustees

The Corporation of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute is governed by the Board of Trustees under the Act of Incorporation of March 21, 1826, and its amendments as adopted by the General Assembly of the State of New York. The Board is empowered to govern itself under its by-laws and to adopt regulations for the conduct of the Institute.

The Board of Trustees includes up to 34 members elected for terms of four years. The mayor of Troy is an ex-officio member. The Board meets at the call of the Chair of the Board, holding at least four regular meetings during the year.

1.3.2 Institute Administration

The Chief Executive Officer of the Institute is the President, who is assisted by key administrators in broad areas of Institute management.

1.3.3 Academic Affairs

The academic affairs of the Institute are directed by the Provost. The Deans of the Schools of Architecture, Engineering, Science, Management, and the Humanities and Social Sciences; the Deans of Graduate Education, Undergraduate Education, and Rensselaer at Hartford; and the Chairs of the various academic departments and centers are responsible for the academic programs within their areas.
1.3.4 Research Administration

The Office of the Vice President for Research coordinates major research themes and programs through interdisciplinary research centers and provides guidance for research programs throughout the Institute.

1.4 FACULTY ORGANIZATION

1.4.1 Faculty Positions

For purposes of this Handbook, “Faculty” at Rensselaer is comprised of the Tenure Faculty and Non-Tenure Faculty only as follows:

The Tenure Faculty includes the Chaired Professors (Institute Chair, Constellation Chair, Career Development Chair and Endowed Chair), the tenured and tenure-track Faculty (Professor, Associate Professor and Assistant Professor). The “tenured Faculty” are those members with a grant of tenure. “tenure-track Faculty” refers to those members among the Tenure Faculty who have not yet received a grant of tenure. The term “Tenure Faculty” includes tenure-track and tenured faculty.

The Non-Tenure Faculty includes the Research Faculty (Research Professor, Research Associate Professor and Research Assistant Professor); and the Clinical Faculty (Clinical Professor, Clinical Associate Professor, Clinical Assistant Professor).

Other individuals holding titles as Emeritus, Adjunct, Visiting or ROTC Faculty, as described is Part 2.4.3, are outside the scope of this Handbook and are addressed separately in accord with relevant Rensselaer policies and procedures. However, retired faculty may participate in faculty senate activities to the extent authorized in the Constitution of the Faculty Senate.

1.4.2 The Schools

The Faculty is organized into the Schools of Architecture, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Management, and Science. The schools of Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, and Science comprise several departments. Individual schools have their own Faculty groups and curriculum committees to deal with intra-school matters.

Administrative units not included within a particular school are: Education for Working Professionals, the Departments of Aerospace Studies, Military Science and Naval Science.
Additionally, Rensselaer at Hartford, a branch campus, administers academic departments and programs at its campus in Hartford, Connecticut. It is understood that all Faculty appointments are specific to a location, either Troy or Hartford.

1.4.3 The Faculty Senate

The Faculty Senate is the representative body of the Rensselaer Faculty; it reports its deliberations to the Faculty and to the Provost.

General Meetings. A General Meeting of the Faculty will be held each semester.

Open Meetings. The president of the Senate shall call an open meeting of the Senate at least once a month during the academic year.

Special Meetings. Issues of pressing importance can be brought before a special meeting of the general Faculty.

Procedures for meetings, along with the purposes and organization of the Senate are described in the Constitution of the Faculty Senate.
PART 2. ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS, PROMOTION & TENURE

2.1 APPOINTMENTS—INTRODUCTION

This Part 2 of the Handbook governs the appointment of Faculty and certain academic administrative appointees. The process outlined applies only to the Faculty of the Institute as defined in Part 1.4.1. Other individuals are outside the scope of this Handbook and addressed separately in accord with relevant Rensselaer policies and procedures. Individuals in the Emeriti, Adjunct, Visiting or ROTC Faculty are discussed in Section 2.4.3. All appointments are made in the form of written agreements and must be made in accordance with the Guidelines of August 1978 approved by the Board of Trustees and in accordance with the The Rensselaer Human Resources Policy Guidelines.

2.2 APPOINTMENTS—PROCESS

2.2.1 Overview

The procedure for appointing Faculty and certain academic administrative appointees at Rensselaer varies among the titles and ranks of the individuals in accordance with specifics provided in Section 2.4 of this Policy. The appointment of Faculty begins with an evaluation leading to an appointment recommendation, which is typically, initiated at the department level. Each appointment recommendation must include an Appointment Proposal that defines the parameters of the proposed position. The recommendation is then evaluated using the review process defined below where it is either rejected or recommended to the final appointment authority. The particular review process and designated final authority for execution of an appointment varies by position. Section 2.4 describes the attributes of each category of Faculty and outlines the requirements and any exceptions in the appointment process. This Section provides a general overview of the process.

2.2.2 Appointment Recommendation

Typically, Faculty appointments are initiated at the department level, with the exception of Chaired Professorships and administrative appointments, which may be initiated by the Dean, Provost or President. The tenured Faculty of the department initiate the process on the basis of an evaluation and discussion, which may include input from other knowledgeable persons in its Faculty and at Rensselaer. The tenured Faculty recommend the appointment to the Department Chair. For those schools that do not have departments, the process may initiate at the school level.
2.2.3 Appointment Proposal

In concert with the tenured Faculty, the Department Chair creates an Appointment Proposal, which includes a criteria statement that specifies (1) the roles and responsibilities of the appointment, (2) the relative weights of the evaluation criteria categories for the appointment (see Section 2.4), including established department-specific criteria, and (3) the terms and conditions of the appointment, including tenure status, the possibility of reappointment, the term of notification of intent to reappoint, whether the appointment is full-time or part-time and to which campus the appointments applies. The resulting proposal is forwarded to the appropriate academic Dean for review and submission to the Provost for approval.

2.2.4 Appointment Type

Appointments fall into one of two categories, which are usually initiated on the following basis.

Initial Appointments. Initial appointments include external candidates who are new hires and internal candidates with a new appointment that does not constitute a reappointment or promotion. The initial appointment process may be initiated on the basis of a search for a candidate with credentials and expertise in line with the appointment criteria and the goals and needs of Rensselaer. All Faculty appointments of more than one year require an open and competitive search as defined in this Handbook.

Reappointments and Promotions. Reappointments and promotions are initiated on the basis of the quality of the annual Performance Evaluation of the candidate, as well as specified appointment criteria and the goals and needs of Rensselaer.

2.2.5 Appointment Review

Typically, all appointments undergo the three types of review, Committee Review, Peer Review and Public Review, which are defined below. The review standards for each category are specified in Section 2.4.

Committee Review. Certain appointments, as outlined below, require review by one or more of the following Rensselaer promotion and tenure review committees: at the department and school level review, are the Department Committee for Promotion and Tenure (DCPT) and the School Committee for Promotion and Tenure (SCPT); at the Institute-wide level review, are the Faculty Committee on Promotion and Tenure (FCPT), the Committee of Deans (CD) and the Joint Committee on Promotion and Tenure (JCPT). These committees are fully described in Section 2.11.
Peer Review. Certain appointments, as defined below, require peer review. For external peer review, reviews are solicited based on a list of potential reviewers selected by the Department Chair. The process for obtaining these reviews is described in Section 2.9.

Public Review. Certain appointments, as defined below, may require review by all or part of the Rensselaer community. Public Review typically occurs prior to the department recommendation. For example, in most cases a public presentation by the candidate and interviews with the Faculty, staff and students in a department should be part of the process.

2.2.6 Appointment Authority

The Provost has final appointment authority for all Faculty. Recommendation to the Provost for Faculty appointments should contain at a minimum, external references, a curriculum vitae, information concerning professional experience including scholarship and education, and confirmation that the Faculty of the department has reviewed and recommends the appointment.

2.2.7 Appointment Approval

The Provost will prepare a list of appointment recommendations to be forwarded to the President for final approval or as information items, as the case may require. This list forms the basis of the President’s report on final appointments to the Board of Trustees. No officer of Rensselaer has authority to bind Rensselaer to an appointment without following the appointment process described above. Further, Faculty members do not have the authority to make academic appointments, even if the supporting funds come from research grants supervised by the Faculty members. Any such promises or assurances of appointment are unofficial until approved by the final appointment authority as described herein. Candidates should be fully and carefully informed of Rensselaer’s procedures and schedule for consideration of appointment recommendations.

2.3 APPOINTMENTS—CRITERIA

The criteria for appointments are the same as those for promotion outlined in Section 2.10 and are applicable for all appointments.

Appointment Privileges. Full-time Faculty are expected to receive an office, computer, telephone, staff support, and access to other basic facilities and support that are necessary for them to carry out their work. The expectation is that full-time Faculty will have their own office or equivalent, except in cases of financial exigency or short-term space shortages. Faculty will receive a Rensselaer identity card and rights to access campus facilities, including but not limited to athletic facilities, the library, parking, dining halls, and computing facilities. Use of computing facilities will include a computer account that allows access to the Internet, electronic resources provided by the library, and electronic mail.

Term of Appointment. Terms of appointment for Faculty are of three types: an ongoing term, an open term which is extendable, or a fixed term which is renewable. (1) “Ongoing term” appointments apply to tenured Faculty; (2) “Open term” appointments apply to tenure-track Faculty. Such appointments are typically for three years and may be extended for a second term of up to 3 years, contingent upon the third-year review; (3) “Fixed term” appointments apply to the Non-Tenure Faculty. Such appointments are typically of one to three years duration and may be renewed with a new contract.

Notice of Extension. Extension of tenure-track Faculty appointments is as follows: (1) those in the first year of service receive 90 days notice, prior to the end of the first year; (2) those in the second year receive six months notice, prior to the end of the second year and; those in the third year or additional years of service receive a one-year terminal contract. Typically, three-year appointments will be reviewed in the third year. Unless specifically notified of extension, the termination date specified in the contract shall prevail.

Term of Service. Terms of service for Faculty are in two categories: (1) Academic Year Appointments of approximately thirty-six weeks apply largely to Tenure Faculty and to Clinical Faculty engaged principally in teaching; and (2) Unless otherwise specified in the appointment contract, Fiscal Year Appointments for the 12-month fiscal year apply largely to Research Faculty and certain administrative appointees.

Resignation or Retirement. Faculty should provide a minimum of one semester’s notice prior to resignation or retirement. Only by approval of the Board of Trustees may a Faculty member, who has retired, be employed in any specified fiscal year.

2.4 APPOINTMENTS—POSITIONS AND ATTRIBUTES

2.4.1 Tenure Faculty

All appointments to the Tenure Faculty are made by the Provost with the approval of the President and, in the case of tenure, by the Board of Trustees or its Executive Committee in accord with the appointment process outlined in this Part 2. All external candidates receiving a grant of tenure will be processed using the same tenure procedure as internal candidates. Appointments of external candidates to Chaired Professorships must be reviewed following the same procedures for Tenure Faculty appropriate to the process for their rank. This review includes review by the Joint Committee on Promotion and Tenure (JCPT) for purposes of granting tenure only and, in addition, review by the Chaired Professors Committee (CPC). In the case of tenure-track Faculty, reappointment usually occurs after the ‘third-year review.’ This process is based on a review of the curriculum vitae, scholarship record, and teaching evaluations by the tenured Faculty in the department. The term “scholarship” as used in this Handbook includes research ranging from that which is typically appropriate to the sciences, to creative endeavors typically appropriate to the fine and performing arts. After review, the tenured Faculty may recommend the appointment to the Department Chair, who may recommend the appointment to the Dean for further review. The Department Chair is responsible for documenting any recommendations for career development by the candidate. Members of the Tenure Faculty are expected to be actively involved in all aspects of the academic endeavor including scholarship, education and service. Members of the Tenure Faculty may acquire tenure, act as principal investigators, chair doctoral committees, advise master’s students, participate in promotion and tenure decisions, vote on curricular matters and participate in Faculty Senate business.

Chaired Professor Positions. Chaired Professorships include Institute Chairs, Constellation Chairs, Career Development Chairs and Endowed Chairs. It is the responsibility and expectation that all Chair holders will maintain a level of academic excellence and performance consistent with the criteria for awarding the Chair. A component of this responsibility is a level of performance and stewardship to the Institute and, where appropriate, to the benefactor as outlined in the Policy on Chaired Professor Positions. Excellence in scholarship and accompanying strengths in all the professional performance dimensions of scholarship, education, and service is expected, in addition to any specific selection criteria associated with a particular endowed position. The accomplishment of excellence should be evidenced by a history and continued demonstration of outstanding scholarship and academic performance, based on national and international standards. Institute Chairs are characterized by an overarching responsibility to Institute wide initiatives and may carry some institutional responsibilities. Constellation Chairs are characterized by leadership in a broad area of research of strategic importance to the Institute. Endowed Chairs are characterized by leadership in a specific area of scholarship. Career Development Chairs are characterized by strong potential for the highest level of accomplishment. It is expected that most Chaired Professor appointments will be made to Tenure Faculty or to those who will become Tenure Faculty upon appointment. However, it is possible for a Chaired Professorship to be granted without tenure, for example when the appointee has not been previously tenured at Rensselaer or another university.

Professor. The rank of Professor is normally attained by promotion from Associate Professor, although a new appointment at the level of professor is also possible. An individual holding this rank should be an academic leader, possessing a nationally or internationally recognized record of excellence in scholarship, a sustained level of high quality in educational activities that go beyond teaching and advising, and a sustained level of service to the department, the Institute, and the profession. It is possible for an appointment at the rank of Professor to be granted without tenure, for example when the appointee has not been previously tenured at Rensselaer or another university.

Associate Professor. The rank of Associate Professor is normally attained by promotion from Assistant Professor, although a new appointment at the level of Associate Professor is also possible. An individual holding this rank should possess a record of excellence in scholarship as demonstrated by an emerging national and/or international reputation, a level of high quality in educational activities including teaching and advising, and a significant level of service to the department, the Institute, and the profession. It is possible for an appointment at the rank of Associate Professor to be granted without tenure, for example when the appointee has not been previously tenured at Rensselaer or another university.

Assistant Professor. Appointments at this rank are usually made for individuals who have completed the Ph.D. or the appropriate advanced degree, or have equivalent experience in the creative arts or other professions. Holders of this rank should exhibit, through their accomplishments, promise of future distinction in scholarship and education. Appointments at the rank of Assistant Professor are granted without tenure.

2.4.2 Non-Tenure Faculty Appointments

Full-time, Tenure Faculty who are actively involved in scholarship, education and service will remain the dominant Faculty model at Rensselaer. The tenure process is a fundamental part of Rensselaer. However, Non-Tenure Faculty whose primary responsibilities are either on teaching or research and who bring specialized experience and expertise to Rensselaer, also fill important roles in both the educational and scholarly missions of Rensselaer.

All appointments to the Non-Tenure Faculty are made by the Provost in accord with the appointment process outlined in this Part 2. With the exception of appointments of one year or less, all appointments require peer review; however, review by the Institute-wide promotion and tenure committees is not required. Reappointment of Non-Tenure Faculty begins with an evaluation and recommendation by the tenured Faculty in the department and proceeds as described in Section 2.10. Members of the Non-Tenure Faculty do not acquire tenure, however, they may act as principal investigators, co-chair doctoral committees with a tenure-track Faculty member, and advise master’s students. Additionally, Non-Tenure Faculty, do not participate in promotion and tenure decisions, but may participate in other department and Institute activities to an extent that will be determined by the department or Institute, respectively.
Research Faculty Appointments. The Research Faculty includes Research Professors, Research Associate Professors, and Research Assistant Professors. The purpose of Research Faculty appointments is to increase the quality and productivity of the research programs at Rensselaer by permitting the appointment of scholars on a non-tenure basis in order to participate in and cooperate with the research efforts of Faculty. The Research Faculty is composed of individuals who hold a terminal degree and who choose to concentrate on research. The qualifications for these titles are commensurate with the research qualifications and level of accomplishments of a tenured Faculty member of similar rank and as appropriate for the profession as a whole. These positions, however, will generally involve only limited teaching responsibilities. Support for these positions is typically derived from research grants or other external funds. An individual in the Research Faculty should not be supported for an extended period of time from funds derived from the unrestricted budget. Since Research Faculty appointments are typically contingent upon external funding, the appointment may be terminated when funding ceases. Indefinite continuity of appointment at any rank should not be assumed.

Clinical Faculty Appointments. The Clinical Faculty includes Clinical Professors, Clinical Associate Professors, and Clinical Assistant Professors. Clinical Faculty will generally focus on teaching and education, but persons holding these titles are expected to participate in professional development activities sufficient to remain current in their field of expertise. The qualifications for these titles are commensurate with the qualifications and levels of accomplishment in the fields of teaching and education as those outlined for the Tenure Faculty of similar rank and as appropriate for the profession as a whole. Clinical Faculty will possess life experiences that make them well suited for the position and allow them to bring significant expertise in the appropriate field. In some cases, certain qualifications may be accepted in lieu of a terminal degree. Such qualifications should be consistent with a high level of attainment in the relevant field of expertise.

2.4.3 Special Faculty Categories

Individuals holding titles as Emeriti, Adjunct, Visiting or ROTC Faculty are described below. These Faculties are outside the scope of the Handbook, unless otherwise specified.

Emeriti Faculty. A member of the Faculty may receive emeritus rank upon retirement based upon the recommendation of the Faculty and approval by the Board of Trustees. The term of appointment for Emeriti is ongoing. This recommendation should be based upon the Faculty member’s outstanding achievements and recognized leadership in the areas of scholarship, education and service.

Adjunct Faculty. The title of Adjunct Faculty is intended for situations in which the appointment is not the primary employment for an individual, or, if already employed by the Institute, is not the primary job responsibility for an individual. Persons holding this title are generally hired for a single semester to teach a specific program, course or lecture series for a fixed term appointment of usually one semester, which may be renewed. This title may be used to make a courtesy appointment for an individual when an affiliation between that individual and the Institute is mutually beneficial.

Visiting Faculty. Visiting Faculty appointments are designed for members of the Faculty that are on leave from their permanent place of employment usually for one academic year, but occasionally shorter, and are typically expected to return there after finishing their visit at Rensselaer.

ROTC Faculty. Military personnel constituting the ROTC faculties for the Air Force, Army, and Navy are assigned by the government of the United States, subject to the appointment by the Institute as personnel with the ranks of Clinical Assistant Professors, Clinical Associate Professors, and Clinical Professors. They are appointed by the Provost based on recommendations of the respective branch of the service and the ROTC coordinator.

2.4.4 Academic Administrative Appointments

Academic administrative appointments that hold Faculty rank should follow the appointment procedures outlined in this Part 2. Appointments with tenure status must follow the established procedures for appointment, promotion and tenure.

President and Provost. The President and the Provost are appointed by the Board of Trustees for a term of no specified duration. They hold their respective offices at the pleasure of the President (as to the Provost) and the Board of Trustees (as to the President). In the case of the appointment of the President and the Provost, it is expected that Faculty will have an integral role in the selection and search process.

Vice Presidents. The Vice Presidents are appointed by the Board of Trustees for a term of no specified duration. They hold their respective offices at the pleasure of the President. A major, in-depth peer review and evaluation of each Vice President will be performed at least once every five years. Faculty participation will be incorporated in the appointment and review process. The review will include anonymous input from all the Faculty.

Vice Provosts. Vice Provosts who play a significant role in scholarship and education at Rensselaer are appointed by the President for a term of no specified duration. It is expected that Faculty will be involved in the search and selection of candidates for these positions. The appointment will be based upon the recommendation of the Provost in consultation with the Faculty.
Deans. The Deans of the five schools, and the Deans for Graduate and Undergraduate Education are appointed by the President, usually for specified term of five years, which may be extended. The appointment will be based upon the recommendation of the Provost in consultation with the tenured Faculty and Chairs of the respective schools. A major, in-depth peer review and evaluation of each Dean will be performed by the Provost at least once every five years. The review will include anonymous input from all the Faculty of the school. See the Rensselaer policy document, Guidelines for Reappointment of Academic Deans.

Associate and Assistant Academic Deans. Associate and Assistant Academic Deans are appointed by the Dean for a term of no specified duration. It is expected that Faculty will be involved in the search and selection of candidates for these positions. The appointment will be made in consultation with the Faculty.

Center Directors. Center Directors include Directors of Institute Centers and Directors of School Centers, which are also known as embedded center directors. Directors of Institute Centers are appointed by the President, for a specified term of three to five years, which may be renewed. The appointment will be based upon the recommendations of the Vice President for Research and the Provost in consultation with the Faculty associated with the Center. Directors of Institute Centers report to the Vice President for Research. Directors of School Centers are appointed by the President, usually for a specified term of three to five years, which may be renewed. Directors of School Centers report to the Dean of the responsible School, and appointment is based upon the recommendation of the Dean and the Provost, in consultation with the Tenure Faculty associated with the Center. A major, in-depth peer review and evaluation of each Center Director will be performed at least once every five years. The review will include anonymous input from the entire Faculty associated with the center. See the Rensselaer policy document, Guidelines for Reappointment of Embedded Center Directors, which may impose more frequent evaluations and reappointments.

Department Chairs. Department Chairs are appointed by the President, usually for a specified term of three to five years, which may be renewed. The appointment is based on the recommendations of the Dean and Provost in consultation with the Tenure Faculty of the respective department. A major in-depth review and evaluation in required prior to reappointment and will be performed during the year prior to termination of the appointment. The review will include anonymous input from the entire Faculty associated with the department See the Rensselaer policy document, Guidelines for Reappointment of Department Chairs, which may imposes more frequent evaluations and reappointments.

Other Department Officers. Associate Chairs and other departmental officers are appointed by the Dean, typically for a term of no specified duration. The appointment is based on the recommendations of the Department Chair in consultation with the Tenure Faculty.
2.5 APPOINTMENTS—GENERAL STIPULATIONS

The following stipulations govern the appointment process at Rensselaer.

Tenure through Department. Tenure shall be held by a Faculty member only through the department at the specific campus in which it was granted and is not automatically transferable to another department or campus. For example, a tenured or tenure-track position that is held through the appropriate department at Rensselaer at Hartford, is not transferable to any other department at Hartford and is not transferable to Rensselaer’s Troy campus. However, at the discretion of the Institute, it is possible for a Hartford faculty member to be granted tenure in a Troy department provided the candidate undergoes the usual process for the granting of tenure in that department.

Primary Appointment. Appointment to a Faculty position in the home department is the primary appointment of an individual hired principally to be a member of the Faculty. Additional assignments, such as Vice Provost, Dean, Department Chair, Center Director, a joint appointment to another department, etc. are ancillary appointments. Upon completion of these additional assignments, an individual reverts to the primary Faculty appointment.

Joint Appointments. Cooperative undertakings by individual Faculty members with other departments are encouraged and, in some instances, additional appointments with other departments may be made by the Provost upon a recommendation from the Department Chair that is based on the vote of the tenured Faculty. Joint appointments should be reviewed by the respective Department Chairs on a periodic basis, but in no case, shall the term of the joint appointment extend beyond the termination date of the primary appointment. Continuation of the joint appointment assumes significant scholarly involvement in the activities and affairs of the Department. Specific rights and responsibilities afforded to joint appointees will be determined by the Department Chair based on input from the Faculty of the department.

Acceptance of Appointments Elsewhere. Faculty at Rensselaer may not simultaneously hold tenure elsewhere. Faculty who accept a concurrent academic position at another institution must obtain approval from their respective Dean and the Provost prior to accepting such an appointment.
2.6 APPOINTMENTS—SALARY

2.6.1 Fiscal and Academic Year Pay

The fiscal year of the Institute begins July 1 and ends the following June 30. The academic year is approximately 36 weeks in duration. The salaries of all full-time Faculty are paid in twenty-four equal installments with the last installments being paid on or before the last day of June of each fiscal year. Half of the academic year’s salary is attributed to the Fall semester and half to the Spring semester.

2.6.2 Supplemental Pay

All recommendations for supplemental pay for Faculty must be processed through the respective Department Chair, fund manager, Dean, Provost and Vice President for Human Resources. Supplemental summer pay for Faculty on academic year appointments will be limited to a maximum of 12 weeks (1/3 of the academic year) during the 14 week summer period. See the Rensselaer Supplemental Pay Policy. Supplemental pay may be granted as follows:

Administrative Supplement. Administrative Supplements as defined in appointment letters or as recommended by the Department Chair.

Summer Research Supplement. Summer salary resulting from externally funded research activities as described in an approved and funded research proposal.

Summer Teaching Supplement. Summer salary resulting from scheduled summer session courses computed as follows:

- Academic Year Salary/1440 = hourly rate
- 3 credit course = 160 hours x hourly rate
- 4 credit course = 210 hours x hourly rate

Professional Program Supplement. Faculty members whose regular responsibilities constitute a full teaching load as determined by their Department Chair and Dean may receive additional compensation for simultaneously teaching intensive courses and workshops or for other activities that constitute an overload.

2.7 MENTORING, EVALUATION AND PERFORMANCE

Salary Changes. Salary changes for individual members of the Faculty are not automatic, but based on achievement and competitive market forces, while remaining within the limits of available funds and the salary structure at Rensselaer. Salary changes are considered on an annual basis, following a Performance Evaluation conducted by the departmental Chair, and reviewed by the Dean of the appropriate Salary changes are based upon the Performance Evaluation and standards listed more extensively under promotion and tenure criteria as appropriate to the position, plus additional factors such as service-related activities necessary to administer the academic research and education programs. The Provost provides an annual summary report on Faculty compensation to the President. Chaired Professors are evaluated annually by the Department Chair, Dean, and Provost. Salary reductions should be reserved for egregious cases of non-performance.

Salary Recommendations and Approval. Faculty salary recommendations shall be based on the Performance Evaluation, which are prepared by the Chair and submitted to the appropriate Dean and the Provost for review and approval. The final decision on any salary adjustment is within the prerogative of the Provost, subject to the final approval of the President.

Performance Evaluation. It is the responsibility of the Department Chair each year to conduct a formal, written Performance Evaluation of the performance of each Faculty member in their department in the areas of scholarship, education, service and established department-specific criteria.

Performance Appraisal. Where applicable, as part of the Performance Evaluation, the Chair should also include a written Appraisal concerning the individual's progress towards reappointment, promotion and tenure. The Chair is required to solicit relevant information for the Appraisal from the Faculty member, and it is the responsibility of the Faculty member to supply such information.

Personal Interview. A copy of this annual Performance Evaluation and Appraisal, signed by the Chair, must be given to the Faculty member who should acknowledge receipt of the evaluation by signing it. The document, containing both signatures, should be returned to the Chair. It is also the responsibility of the Chair to review the Performance Evaluation and Appraisal each year in a personal interview with the Faculty member. If the Faculty member agrees with the Performance Evaluation and Appraisal conducted by the Chair, a copy of the evaluation, signed by both parties, is forwarded by the Chair to the Dean of the appropriate school for further review. If the Faculty member disagrees with the written Performance Evaluation or Appraisal, he or she is expected to make such disagreement known to the Chair, and has the option to comment on the evaluation, in writing. A copy of the evaluation and the written response of the Faculty member, if any, are forwarded by the Chair to the Dean for further review. It is the responsibility of the Dean to arbitrate any continuing disagreements concerning the Performance Evaluation and Appraisal, and to inform the Department Chair who in turn will inform the Faculty member of the final decision.

In the case of a school with no departments, the written Performance Evaluation, Appraisal and Personal Interview are conducted by the Dean, and the results of the evaluation and written responses, if any, are forwarded to the Provost, who then arbitrates any continuing disagreements. All cases of disagreement with the Dean are further reviewed by the Provost, who then informs the Dean and Faculty member of the final decision.

Mentoring of Faculty. All Faculty members will be provided the opportunity to work with a Faculty mentor. The goal of each Faculty mentor is to assist fellow Faculty members in reaching their fullest potential as members of the Rensselaer community.

In particular, Faculty mentors should support new Faculty members in finding and utilizing the campus resources to assist in course development, teaching, advising, proposal development, and research. The mentor should work to introduce the new Faculty member to the Rensselaer and appropriate professional communities. The mentor should assist the Faculty member in preparing her/himself for tenure review and decision by providing information, support and guidance throughout the probationary period.

During the first months after a tenure-track Faculty member's appointment has begun, the mentoring of the new Faculty member will be the responsibility of the Department Chair. Within a year of the new Faculty member's appointment, the Department Chair will arrange for a mentor to work with the new Faculty member throughout the probationary time period, until a tenure decision is reached.

The Department Chair will consult with the new Faculty member before assigning a mentor. The Department Chair will ask the Faculty member to propose possible mentors with whom the Faculty member would be pleased to work, and whenever possible will assign a mentor from the names suggested by the Faculty member. In the event that a junior Faculty member prefers not to work with a mentor, a mentor will not be assigned. A specific professional relationship between the new Faculty member and the mentor is viewed as an appropriate basis for mentoring. The selection of the mentor or the election by the Faculty member not to have a mentor will be noted in the Faculty member's file.

2.8 PROMOTION & TENURE

Recommendations on academic promotions and the granting of tenure are extremely important to both the individual Faculty member and to Rensselaer. Procedures, therefore, must be well-defined and adhered to in all cases. However, given the desired diversity of the schools, it is also important that the procedures remain flexible enough to reflect these individual differences. It is also important that the departmental and school contexts of each case be recognized, considered, and respected at the Institute-wide level of review. The official dossier document templates of each Department or School are available at the website of Office of the Provost.

2.9 EXTERNAL REVIEWERS

External reviewers play a crucial role in helping Rensselaer evaluate cases for promotion and tenure. External reviewers are chosen as follows:

(a) The members of the appropriate Department Committee on Promotion and Tenure (DPTC) and the candidate shall each submit to the Department Chair a list of potential external peer reviewers. In order to achieve independent lists, the Chair should first obtain a short list of names from the candidate and then obtain an independent list from the DPTC.

(b) The Chair shall solicit, and strive to obtain an equal number of reviewers from each list and shall strive to receive an equal number of responses.

(c) The candidate must be given the opportunity to review the list of selected reviewers before letters of solicitation are sent, and to comment in writing on the appropriateness of these reviewers for his or her particular case. Any such written comments are to become a permanent part of the dossier.

(d) The Chair shall prepare a log which lists the names of the external peer reviewers, the dates on which letters were sent soliciting reviews, the dates on which responses were received, and a sample of the solicitation letter. Biographical information concerning each reference and a brief description of his or her past and present relationships with the candidate, i.e., thesis adviser, co-author of papers, sponsor of the candidate's grants, etc., will also appear on the log. This log becomes a permanent part of the dossier.

(e) If the number of external reviews received is less than the required number of six (6), steps (i) through (iv) are to be repeated until at least six (6) external reviews are received. In order to make the case for promotion and/or tenure as strong as possible, reviews should be solicited broadly. International references, references from several different major universities, and prominent figures in the candidate's field should be considered when preparing the selection of external reviewers. The weight of different kinds of references will vary depending upon the discipline represented.

(f) No external review received may be removed from the dossier.
2.10  PROMOTION

2.10.1  Introduction

Promotion is a means of recognizing the academic achievements of individual Faculty. All promotions must follow the guidelines established in this Handbook. Ranks and titles among the Faculty are outlined in Section 2.4. Promotion among Faculty at Rensselaer is typically from the rank of assistant to associate, or from the rank of associate to full professor.

Consideration of promotion can be initiated by the individual, by the individual’s Department Chair (or Dean in the absence of a Chair), or by the appropriate Faculty (tenure Faculty holding at least the academic rank that would result from the promotion) in the individual’s department (or school in the absence of a department). Promotion may occur at any time during an individual’s career.

Promotion decisions are made separate from tenure decisions, even though they may sometimes be considered simultaneously. It is recommended that all Faculty maintain a dossier that is updated on a yearly basis to reflect the accomplishments of the individual. This dossier will then used as the basis for the promotion case.

2.10.2  Promotion — Approval

Tenure Faculty. In the case of all tenured and tenure-track Faculty, promotion is approved by the President after recommendations have been made by the appropriate Faculty (tenure Faculty holding at least the academic rank that would result from the promotion) in the individual's department, the Department Chair (or Dean in the absence of a Chair), the committee for promotion and tenure of the appropriate school, the Dean of the appropriate school, the three Institute-wide committees defined below, and the Provost. These recommendations will consider input from selected internal and external peers and from students. The criteria for promotion are outlined below.

Non-Tenure Faculty. In the case of Clinical and Research Faculty, promotion is approved by the Provost after recommendation has been made by the appropriate Faculty (tenure Faculty holding at least the academic rank that would result from the promotion) in the individual's department, the Department Chair (or Dean in the absence of a Chair), the committee for promotion and tenure of the appropriate school, the Dean of the appropriate school, and the Provost. These recommendations will consider input from selected internal and external peers and from students.

Non-Tenure Faculty will be considered for promotion at reasonable intervals consistent with the corresponding intervals for tenure-track Faculty. Promotion decisions should be made based on the educational attainment level appropriate for the particular profession as a whole. The criteria for promotion should follow the criteria for tenure-track promotion outlined below adjusted by weighting for teaching, service, and scholarship established in the appointment letter. The content and format of the promotion case is modeled after the content and format of a promotion and tenure case for tenure-track Faculty.

2.10.3 Promotion — Criteria

The three principal classifications of activities evaluated for promotion of Tenure Faculty and Non-Tenure Faculty are scholarship, education and service. All are important to a promotion decision, but are not equally weighted. Evidence of excellence in scholarship is paramount to the goals of Rensselaer and is of primary importance for Tenure Faculty. It is important to emphasize that each promotion case must be judged on its own merits. The criteria listed below are only general criteria.

EXAMPLES OF CRITERIA BY RANK:

Assistant to Associate Professor. Promotion from assistant to associate requires that the candidate demonstrate, in accordance with established criteria:

(a) emerging national or international recognition for scholarly activities;

(b) a high degree of quality in education with an emphasis on teaching and advising;

(c) service to the department, Rensselaer, and the appropriate profession.

Associate Professor to Professor. In general, promotion from associate to full Professor requires that the candidate demonstrate, in accordance with established criteria:

(a) an established wide national or international recognition for scholarly activities;

(b) sustained high quality in education with a focus that extends beyond just teaching to advising and curriculum development;

(c) sustained service to the department, Rensselaer, and significant external service to the appropriate profession.

EXAMPLES OF CRITERIA BY AREA OF ACTIVITY:

Scholarship. Scholarship is represented by the advancement of knowledge in a particular discipline and the dissemination of that knowledge in an appropriate form. Scholarship is generally demonstrated by:
(a) Quality and quantity of publications in refereed journals, papers, or books, and other creative works widely recognized within a particular discipline;

(b) Evidence of continuing self-development and scholarly interaction with others in the profession with the ability to create and sustain a program of high quality scholarship in a particular discipline;

(c) Recognized stature in a particular discipline or field;

(d) Other factors such as, professional accomplishments of former students and dissemination of knowledge to non-specialists.

Education. The purpose of education is the transmission of knowledge and the stimulation of students' intellect. Education is generally demonstrated by:

(a) Long-range educational impact on students; lasting contributions to the professional and personal growth of those students

(b) Quality of the presentation of course material and the ability to effectively communicate knowledge to students in a variety of modes;

(c) Participation in course curriculum and program development at all instructional levels;

(d) Direction of advanced study through thesis supervision;

(e) Effectiveness of personal interactions with students through advising, and career counseling.

Service. The purpose of service is Faculty participation in the accomplishment of the goals of Rensselaer. Service is generally demonstrated by:

(a) Service to the Institute that includes service to the school and Institute-wide committee activities and administrative participation, as well as, service to the community and public in one's professional capacity as relevant to the goals of Rensselaer.

(b) Service to the department that includes service on departmental committees, mentoring of Faculty, and other tasks as defined by the Chair.

(c) Service to the profession that includes service to professional societies in the appropriate discipline.
2.11 TENURE

2.11.1 Introduction

Tenure Purpose. The tenure system fosters academic freedom at Rensselaer, including protection from hindrances to the search for knowledge and hindrances on the dissemination of knowledge. The tenure system consists of rules and procedures that establish an essentially self-regulated body of scholars enjoying the continuity of existence and economic security within which academic freedom is both fostered and protected. The protections of academic freedom are extended to all members of the Tenure Faculty during their terms of appointment.

Tenure Definition. Tenure provides a means of insuring academic freedom in scholarship, education and service. Tenure is granted by the Board of Trustees and is defined as the assurance of academic appointment and base salary unless terminated by retirement, resignation, death or for causes as outlined in this Handbook. The granting of tenure must follow the guidelines established in this Handbook.

Tenure is granted to scholars with an appropriate advanced degree and outstanding professional achievements who have, on the basis of past performance, demonstrated high potential for continuing contributions to the goals of Rensselaer. The granting of tenure, although based on demonstrated potential for being a mature scholar, also depends upon Rensselaer's needs and priorities in the Tenure Faculty member's particular field of endeavor. Tenure candidates are apprised of Institute priorities and their personal tenure prospects through the annual Performance Appraisal. Tenure does not apply to administrative appointees and may be granted only in the ranks of the Tenure Faculty.

2.11.2 Tenure Period

Pre-Tenure Period of Six Years. The process for awarding tenure should be completed no later than the end of the equivalent of the Faculty member’s sixth year at Rensselaer.
Pre-Tenure Reductions. Faculty who have held academic appointments at other academic institutions during which time the individual held an appropriate doctoral degree or recognized terminal degree for the profession, may qualify for a reduced pre-tenure decision period. This reduction may be specified in writing at the time of appointment at Rensselaer.

Pre-Tenure Limitations. No individual may remain as a full-time member of the Rensselaer Faculty for longer than the maximum pre-tenure decision period plus one-year's notice, unless granted tenure or given a terminal contract.

Pre-Tenure Extensions. Partial years of service may arise from several sources (e.g. hiring during the course of the academic year, granting of a leave for a portion of an academic year, or obtaining the appropriate doctoral or recognized terminal degree in the course of an academic year), resulting in the completion of the maximum pre-tenure decision period during the course of an academic year. In such cases, the maximum pre-tenure decision period shall be extended to the end of the academic year during which the normal pre-tenure decision period is completed, except for the case of an approved leave of absence that is separately discussed in the next paragraph. For example, a Faculty member who is hired during the middle of an academic year would have the maximum pre-tenure decision period extended until the end of the academic year during which the equivalent of six years of service will be completed.

Pre-Tenure Leaves. Rensselaer provides a variety of leave opportunities which are subject to approval, including sabbatical, parental and other leaves as described in Part 6 of this Handbook. With written approval of the Provost and the Dean obtained in advance of the leave, a Faculty member may exclude a leave period from the pre-tenure decision period.

Defacto Tenure. The failure in any part of the tenure procedures will not automatically result in the granting of tenure, thereby bypassing the important evaluation process. Rensselaer does not confer or support automatic or defacto tenure.

2.11.3 Tenure Criteria

General Criteria. The same three principal classifications of activities evaluated for promotion of Tenure Faculty and Non-Tenure Faculty (scholarship, education and service) and all specific criteria listed above for promotion decisions also apply to tenure decisions, though the relative importance of these may vary among academic departments and or schools. Promotion and tenure, however, represent significantly different commitments by Rensselaer. Promotion is recognition of outstanding achievement; tenure, although based on achievement, is a guarantee of academic freedom. The granting of tenure is based on demonstrated potential for becoming a mature scholar, but also depends on Rensselaer's needs and priorities in the Faculty member's field of endeavor. Rensselaer recognizes that each tenure case must also be judged on its own merits. The appropriateness of each criterion must be decided at each level of review.

Uniformity of Criteria & Procedures. The diversity of professions and disciplines within the academic community of Rensselaer and the several Faculties preclude wholly uniform procedures for appointments and promotions at the school level. The primary responsibility for developing and maintaining a high quality Faculty rests with the individual discipline.

A principal objective of Rensselaer is recruitment, development and retention of a distinguished Faculty. While the means to this end may vary, particularly in some of the professional schools, generally the objective will be met by stressing intellectual leadership as the chief criterion. The relative weight given to the scholarship, education and service varies from case to case and should be determined by the individual Faculties.

Each Faculty shall adopt procedures for the review of Appointment Proposals, promotion, and tenure within the Faculty, that are in accord with this Handbook. Uniform procedures should be followed when appointments, promotions or tenure are considered at the Institute-wide level under the aegis of the President and Provost.

Upon initial appointment, each new Faculty member shall be provided with written documentation that describes the criteria and procedures used in promotion and tenure.

2.12 DEPARTMENT AND SCHOOL REVIEW

The procedure for promotion of Tenure Faculty and/or tenure is typically initiated at the department level (school level in the case where no departmental structure exists) and then progresses to the school level before evaluation by Rensselaer’s three Institute-wide Committees.

All cases of promotion or tenure of Faculty must be reviewed following the guidelines described below. These include those for (1) all internal candidates for promotion or tenure who have received positive recommendations from their departments and schools, (2) all internal candidates who are electing to follow the appeals process as described in Part 5.2 of this Handbook, and (3) all candidates for initial appointments at the Associate Professor and Professor level who have received positive recommendations from their departments and schools, if immediate tenure is to be granted. The dossiers for all candidates for initial appointments to Chaired Professorships and administrators who are members of the faculty are also to be reviewed for the purpose of granting tenure. The dossier of all initial appointments must be reviewed before a contract is issued by the Institute. The required procedures and responsibilities follow:

2.12.1 Department-Level Review

The Department Chair (the Dean in a school without departments) has the following responsibilities:

Communication of Standards. The Chair will regularly inform each Faculty member of Rensselaer's current standards for promotion and/or tenure as they apply to the department.

Nomination of Candidates. The Chair will create a list of candidates who have been nominated for each level of promotion and/or tenure. The Chair must nominate for tenure evaluation all Faculty members who will complete the maximum pre-tenure decision period during the current academic year.

Advising on Dossier. The Chair will assist all candidates in gathering the factual material to be placed in his/her dossier. This is to include an updated version of the usual "Biographical Sketch" and any additional information that demonstrates the scholarship, education and service achievements of the candidate.

Convening the Department Committee on Promotion and Tenure (DCPT). The Chair will convene the appropriate Department Committee on Promotion and Tenure to review the dossiers, minus external peer reviews, of all candidates within the department and decide which cases should proceed to the solicitation of external peer reviews.

Soliciting External Review. If the decision of the DCPT is positive, or if the case is under appeal, the process proceeds to the solicitation of external reviews. The Chair will solicit, receive and log the results of no fewer than six (6) external peer reviews for the purpose of providing outside expertise that is independent and objective.

Soliciting Student Input. The Chair will solicit, receive and log the results of evaluations and letters of recommendation from former students, preferably both undergraduates and graduate students. The procedures to be followed are identical to those listed above for external peer reviews including the minimum requirement of six letters.

Soliciting Internal Letters. The Chair will solicit internal letters that will be considered as part of the dossier for the purpose of clarifying scholarship, education and service.

Tenure to evaluate the external peer reviews and student evaluations, and to provide a recommendation as to whether each case should continue to go forward. The recommendation of this Faculty committee shall be in writing to the Chair and shall contain a summary record of the vote of the committee (for, against, abstain or absent) on each candidate, which becomes a permanent part of the dossier.

The appropriate Departmental Committee on Promotion and Tenure consists of:

(a) PROMOTION: For promotion, the minimum membership is all tenured Faculty who hold the proposed rank, or higher. Each department, at its discretion, may extend this committee to include all Faculty members who hold the proposed rank, or higher, with or without tenure.

(b) TENURE: For tenure, the minimum membership is all tenured Faculty at the candidate's rank, or higher. Each department, at its discretion, may extend this committee to include all tenured Faculty members, regardless of academic rank.

The Department Chair shall serve as the ex-officio, nonvoting, Chair of each promotion and tenure committee.

Making a Decision. After receiving the recommendation of the appropriate Department Committee on Promotion and Tenure, the Chair shall decide whether the case merits submission to the next level of review. A written decision is required and becomes a permanent part of the dossier, and must be shared with the members of the appropriate Department Committee on Promotion and Tenure.

Informing the Candidate. The Chair shall inform the candidate of the recommendation of the Faculty committee and the Chair’s decision. In the event of a negative decision, the Chair shall inform the candidate, in writing, of the decision, the reasons for it, and of the candidate's right to appeal (as described in Part 5.2 of this Handbook).

Forwarding the Dossier. The Chair will forward the dossiers of all candidates receiving a positive decision to the Dean of the School.

Updating the Candidate. Chairs must report back to the candidate in a timely fashion on the final votes at each level of review, up to and including the recommendation from the Dean, as the case goes forward.

2.12.2 School-Level Review

It is the responsibility of the Dean of the appropriate school to ensure that the review is conducted as follows:
Evaluation by School Committee on Promotion and Tenure (SCPT). The Dean of the School will select and convene the School Committee on Promotion and Tenure to determine whether additional external peer reviews are desired for the candidates brought forward from the departments within that school.

Evaluation by External Peers. The Dean of the School may direct the Chair to solicit additional external peer evaluations for candidates brought forward from the departments. A log of the solicitations shall be maintained in a manner similar to that described earlier for the Department Chair, including review of the list of external reviewers before solicitation by the candidate and the opportunity for the candidate to comment on this list in writing. The log and written comments, if any, must remain as a permanent part of the dossier. If additional letters are added, the dossier shall be reevaluated by the DPTC.

Recommendation of the School Committee on Promotion and Tenure Committee (SCPT). The Dean of the school will convene the School Committee on Promotion and Tenure to evaluate the dossiers of all candidates and to provide a recommendation as to whether each case should go forward to the next level of review. The recommendation of the committee shall be in writing to the Dean, and shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) taken on each candidate. This written recommendation must remain a permanent part of the dossier. The School Committee on Promotion and Tenure shall consist of the Associate Dean(s), the Chairs of the appropriate school, and representative(s) of the Faculty as determined by the Dean.

Decision of the Dean of the School. After receiving the recommendation of the School Committee on Promotion and Tenure, the Dean shall decide whether the case merits submission to the next level of review. A written decision is required and becomes a permanent part of the dossier and must be shared with the members of the SCPT. If the decision is positive, or if the case is under appeal, the process proceeds to the next level of review. In the event of a negative decision, the Dean shall inform the candidate, in writing, of the decision, the reasons for it, and of the candidate's right to appeal. In the case of an appeal, as described in Part 5.2 of this Handbook, the Dean prepares a written decision which, whether positive or negative, goes forward to the next level of review.

Dean of the School’s Decision to Provost. The Dean of the school will forward the dossiers of all candidates receiving a positive decision, and the dossiers of all candidates following the appeal process, to the Provost. In the case of tenure decisions from Rensselaer at Hartford, the Dean of the School should forward the dossiers to the Vice President and Dean for Rensselaer at Hartford shall arrive at his or her decision as to whether the case should be submitted to the next level of review. This written decision must become a permanent part of the dossier, and must be shared with the members of the SCPT.
Dean’s Reports.  Deans must report back to Chairs in a timely fashion on the final votes at each level of review, up to and including the recommendation from the Dean.

2.13  INSTITUTE-WIDE REVIEW

2.13.1  Institute Committees

There are three (3) committees at the Institute-wide level which conduct evaluations of Faculty performance for the purposes of promotion and tenure.  This committee structure is intended to provide a system of checks and balances so that the interests of all parties concerned are represented.  These committees are:

- Faculty Committee on Promotion and Tenure (FCPT)
- Committee of Deans (CD)
- Joint Committee on Promotion and Tenure (JCPT)

The recommendation of the JCPT is advisory to the Provost who in turn makes a decision that is forwarded to the President.  The decision of the President of Rensselaer is forwarded to the Board of Trustees for final approval.  Institute-wide review is initiated by the Provost in concert with the Institute-wide Committees in accord with the following procedures.  The composition, responsibility, and required documentation for each committee are described below.

2.13.2  Duties of the Provost

It is the responsibility of the Provost to review all dossiers to assure that they are complete and prepared in accordance with the tenure and promotion process as described in this Part 2.  If the Provost finds the dossier is incomplete or not in accord with the tenure and promotion procedures, the Provost then has the option to administratively withdraw the dossier without prejudice to the candidate.  Otherwise, the Provost proceeds as follows:

Makes all dossiers forwarded by the Deans available to the members of both the FCPT and the CD.

Receives all dossiers of candidates who choose to follow the appeals process and forwards them to the appropriate department.

Convenes the FCPT and participates, if requested in the deliberations of the FCPT, and receive from the FCPT their recommendation on each case.  The recommendation of the FCPT shall be in writing to the Provost, and shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) to serve as a basis for deliberation in the JCPT.
Convenes the CD to evaluate the dossiers of all candidates and to provide a recommendation on each case. The recommendation of the CD shall be in writing to the Provost, and shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) to serve as a basis for deliberation in the JCPT.

Convenes and chairs the JCPT to review the recommendations of both the FCPT and the CD and the reasons for these recommendations and obtains a final recommendation on each case. This recommendation shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) taken on each candidate and becomes a permanent part of the dossier.

Arrives at his or her decision on each case after considering the recommendation from the JCPT. This decision must be shared with the members of the JCPT. If the Provost does not concur with the recommendation of the JCPT, the Provost shall reconvene the JCPT to inform them of the reasons for the decision. If the decision of the Provost is negative, the Provost shall inform the appropriate Dean, who shall inform the candidate of the decision, the reasons for it and of the candidate's right to appeal. The procedure to be followed in the case of an appeal is described in Part 5.2 of this Handbook.

Forwards positive decisions for promotion and tenure to the President.

Reports back to Deans in a timely fashion on the final votes at the Institute level, the recommendation of the President, and the action of the Board of Trustees.

2.13.3 Action by the President

After considering the decision of the Provost, the President shall make his or her decision on each case and forward that decision to the Board of Trustees. Promotion decisions are submitted for information, tenure decisions are submitted for the final approval of the Board. If the decision of the President is negative, the President shall inform the Provost, who shall inform the candidate of the decision, the reasons for it, and of the candidate's right to appeal. The procedure to be followed in the case of an appeal is described in Part 5.2 of this Handbook.
2.13.4 Faculty Committee on Promotion and Tenure (FCPT)

Composition: The FCPT is a standing committee of the Faculty Senate reporting to the Faculty Senate and the Provost. It consists of eight Faculty members who are tenured full Professors, one elected from each of the five schools and three elected at large, of which two are elected by Faculty and one elected by students. The two at-large members elected by the Faculty cannot be from the same School. All are voting members.

So that there is continuity and corporate memory, the terms of the seven members representing the Faculty are for three years, staggered such that at least two new members take office at the beginning of each academic year. The faculty member representing the students serves a term for one year. Members are elected by the Faculty from a slate of candidates presented by the Election Committee of the Faculty Senate according to the procedures outlined in the Faculty Senate Constitution. When a member is unable to assume office or to complete a term, the person will be replaced for the duration of that term by the next ranking nominee for that position in the last-held election. If no ranking nominee is available to serve, the constituency has the obligation to fill the seat. Procedures for securing a replacement from the Faculty are specified in the Faculty Senate Constitution.

The Chair of the Promotion and Tenure Committee shall be selected from the elected, members by the Executive Committee, usually as the last order of business for the academic year so that there is a clear responsibility for FCPT duties that may occur over the summer. The chair’s role is to facilitate decisions, move them along in a timely and orderly fashion, schedule meeting times (usually through the Provost’s office), make inquiries on behalf of the committee, report results of these inquiries to the committee, take notes from each meeting so there is a record of the discussion, and prepare the required documentation, described below, for the Provost. The chair is also responsible for communicating with Deans concerning the quality of dossiers the FCPT has received. The chair also reports to the Faculty Senate on a regular basis throughout the year and prepares an annual report for the Faculty Senate of the FCPT’s activities at the end of the year.

Responsibility: It is the responsibility of the FCPT to make recommendations to the Provost on all cases of promotion or tenure of faculty. The FCPT must see the dossier of all initial appointments with tenure before a contract is issued by the Institute.

Documentation: The report of the FCPT to the Provost shall be in writing and shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) taken by the committee on each candidate. This written report shall remain as a permanent part of the dossier.
2.13.5 Committee of Deans (CD)

Composition: The CD consists of the Deans of the Schools of Architecture, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Management, and Science, who all serve as voting members. The Provost serves as the ex-officio, nonvoting Chair.

Responsibility: It is the responsibility of the CD to make recommendations to the Provost on all cases of promotion or tenure of faculty.

Documentation: The report of the CD to the Provost shall be in writing and shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) taken by the committee on each candidate. This written report shall remain as a permanent part of the dossier.

2.13.6 Joint Committee on Promotion and Tenure (JCPT)

Composition: The JCPT consists of the eight Faculty members of the FCPT, and the Deans of each of the academic schools, all who serve as voting members. The Provost serves as the ex-officio, nonvoting Chair.

Responsibility: It is the responsibility of the JCPT to review the separate recommendations of the FCPT and the CD and the reason(s) for these recommendations, and to provide the Provost with a final recommendation concerning the merits of these cases and the overall objectives of the schools and Rensselaer.

Documentation: The recommendation of the JCPT to the Provost shall be in writing and shall contain a summary record of the vote (for, against, abstain or absent) taken by the committee on each candidate. This written report shall remain a permanent part of the dossier.

Recommendations on academic promotions and the granting of tenure are extremely important to both the individual Faculty member and to Rensselaer. Procedures, therefore, must be well-defined and adhered to in all cases. However, given the desired diversity of the schools, it is also important that the procedures remain flexible enough to reflect these individual differences. It is also important that the departmental and school contexts of each case be recognized, considered, and respected at the Institute-wide level of review.

2.14 TERMINATION

This Section describes the process for the termination of tenured appointments. Termination of tenure-track appointments and Non-Tenure Faculty appointments is contractual in nature and governed by the conditions of the appointment made with Rensselaer. Appointment criteria and term of notification requirements for tenure-track Faculty and Non-Tenure Faculty appointments is covered in Section 2.3.

(a) Termination of Tenured Appointments for Administrative Reasons. The appointments to academic ranks carrying tenure may be terminated by Rensselaer, in its discretion, for administrative reasons, such as financial exigency or discontinuance of a program or department. In every case of financial exigency or discontinuance of a program or department of instruction, the Faculty member concerned will be given notice as soon as possible, never less than 12 months’ notice.

(b) Termination for Lack of Adequate Performance, etc. Appointments to academic ranks carrying tenure may be terminated by Rensselaer, for reasons of lack of adequate performance, misconduct or dereliction of duty such as, but not limited to, neglecting regular and punctual performance of work, failure to maintain the level of training, knowledge, experience and contacts necessary to keep pace with developments in the individual's field, failure to perform assigned duties, failure to observe academic or professional ethics, significant violations of the rules, regulations, and/or policies of the Institute, or any violations of law constituting a felony, or any crime involving moral turpitude.

(c) Termination for Misconduct in Scholarly Activities (Scholarly Misconduct). Faculty members found to have committed scholarly misconduct pursuant to the processes in Part 5.3 of this Handbook, may be terminated. The findings of misconduct made by the Investigation Panel convened pursuant to section 5.3 and forwarded to the Provost will be conclusive. They will, in their entirety, be submitted to and binding upon the Hearing Panel considering termination convened pursuant to this section and will not be subject to re-examination by any person at the termination hearing. The sole authority of the Hearing Panel convened pursuant to this section (c) will be to determine if the findings and recommendations of the Investigation Panel are sufficient to warrant termination.

Termination Procedures. Cases of proposed termination by Rensselaer under paragraphs (b) and (c) above that cannot be resolved by mutual consent between the Faculty member and the administration, will be considered by a Committee of three Faculty members (the Panel) for recommendation to the President. One member will be chosen by the Faculty Senate, one by the Provost, and one by the President. Before such a hearing, the staff involved shall be informed by the administration in writing of the reasons for the proposed termination of appointment. The staff member shall have the opportunity to be heard in his or her own defense and shall be permitted to choose a faculty advisor who may act as counsel. A record shall be made of the hearing and a copy filed in the Office of the Provost. The committee, after due consideration of the matter, shall make recommendations for action to the Institute administration.
PART 3. FACULTY RESPONSIBILITIES

3.1 ACADEMIC FREEDOM AND RESPONSIBILITY

Rensselaer Faculty are members of a learned profession whose actions reflect on the character of academia and the institution of which they are a part. As such, they are entitled to full freedom of scholarship, including the freedom to openly express their thoughts and ideas and disseminate the results of their scholarship and opinions. They are free to speak with others at a time and place of their choosing, including their own offices, provided it does not interfere with their routine duties. Notwithstanding, when Faculty speak or write as individuals, they should endeavor to make it clear that they do not speak for the Institute.

Responsibilities of Faculty members include: constantly seeking the truth and becoming more proficient in their areas of competence; conveying to their students a respect for knowledge and a deep awareness of its uses; continually seeking to improve methods of transmitting knowledge to students and helping them learn to develop new knowledge independently; sharing their expertise with their colleagues, when needed, so that the concept of a community of scholars will be enhanced; and while maintaining their individuality, exemplifying in their conduct the professionalism, the ethics, and the generosity of spirit which typify the ideal scholar.

3.2 DUTIES AND EXPECTATIONS

Expectations of a Faculty member will vary as a function of his or her title, position and letter of appointment. In assigning workload, the academic Dean and Department Chair will consider academic activities in all areas of scholarship, education and service.

3.2.1 Classroom Responsibilities

The Provost’s Memorandum regarding the Academic Calendar and Regulations is distributed each semester and outlines, in detail, the dates, information, policy and procedures pertinent to teaching activity. All Faculty members should be familiar with the academic regulations of Rensselaer and the relevant content of the publications in this Section.

Course Management. For each course, the Faculty is expected to: (1) provide a course syllabus at the beginning of each semester with assignments, grading and attendance policy, office hours and other particulars, such as exam dates, so that students will understand what is expected of them; (2) provide timely and relevant feedback to students on their performance; and (3) provide course structure and instruction that is consistent with Rensselaer’s policies and procedures. Faculty should also provide students with information on academic integrity that is consistent with Rensselaer Policy and Procedures Regarding Academic Dishonesty.

3.2.2 Dissemination of Scholarly Works

The Institute encourages members of the Faculty to produce and disseminate works that are scholarly, academic, pedagogical or artistic in nature, regardless of their form of expression. Such works reflect the research and creativity of the author and are valued and considered as evidence of professional advancement or accomplishment. The Institute encourages the production of such works which may be used at the Institute and may be adopted for use elsewhere.

Scholarly works are works of copyright, regardless of the form of expression, the nature of which may constitute original expression and may represent the personal or scholarly ideas and beliefs of the Faculty author. Such works include but are not limited to, scholarly papers, journal articles, research bulletins, exhibits, monographs, textbooks, books, plays, poems, artwork and electronic works.

In accord with academic tradition and subject to The Rensselaer Intellectual Property Policy, there is a presumption of ownership by the author of scholarly works that are the result of independent academic effort, that is, where the Faculty author rather than the Institute, determines the subject matter, intellectual approach, direction, and conclusions.

3.3 PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

All members of the Rensselaer Community, regardless of position, should share the common values that nurture the development and well being of themselves, each other, the students, employees, and the Institute. In addition, it is expected that no one – especially Faculty in privileged positions of leadership and power – would inappropriately exploit their position for personal advantage. Because of a power asymmetry, a Faculty member should exercise extreme care before entering into other types of relationships with a student or staff member, especially one in which a less powerful partner can be easily compromised. Examples of such relationships are consulting associations and business partnerships. Moreover, in accord with Institute-wide employee policies, discrimination and harassment in all its forms, including sexual harassment are considered to be serious offenses that are prohibited at Rensselaer, not only as a matter of policy, but as a matter of Federal and State law.

In an academic institution the application of the concept of intellectual integrity is closely linked to the principle of academic freedom, which gives a great deal of freedom and responsibility to individual Faculty members. This principle is based on the premise that the intellectual integrity and vitality of our institution is best maintained by minimizing institutionalized constraints associated with the development and exchange of knowledge.

3.4 CONSULTING

Faculty have the privilege to undertake consulting work of a type which will advance their professional standing, provided it does not interfere with their Institute duties, to this end, during the academic year, they may be released from their normal scholarly activities by not more than an average of one equivalent day per week. All consulting activities in excess of the one-day-per week limit must be specifically approved in advance by the Provost. Additionally, Rensselaer policy requires that Faculty file an annual disclosure form with their appropriate administrative officer concerning their outside consulting activities. Deans will report their consulting activity to the President.

Prior to signing intellectual property agreements with companies for whom they intend to do consulting, Faculty should submit such agreements for approval by the Institute Office of General Counsel. This will assure their agreements will not be in violation of Rensselaer’s Intellectual Property Policy or other agreements which they have signed with the Institute.

Where Institute facilities are used extensively in these professional or consulting activities, they will, in general, be considered as Institute research and conducted by contract with Rensselaer itself.

With respect to conflicts of interest involving consulting work, refer to The Rensselaer Policy on Conflict of Interest or Commitment and Rensselaer Policy on Potential Conflicts of Interest, Officers and Staff.
PART 4. RESEARCH AND SPONSORED PROGRAMS

4.1 INTRODUCTION

This Part 4 describes Institute policies regarding research and other activities that are supported, in whole or in part, by external sponsors, such as, agencies of the government, foundations, corporations or other institutions.

A document, Guide to Sponsored Research, is prepared and distributed by the Office of Research Administration and Finance. This manual describes, in detail, the procedures which should be followed in applying for and administering contracts and grants related to research and sponsored programs, and gives examples of applicable forms. A copy of the manual may be obtained from the Office of Research Administration and Finance and is also available online at the www.rpi.edu.

Questions and suggestions concerning either policies or procedures for sponsored research should also be addressed to the Office of Research Administration and Finance, or the Vice President for Research.

4.2 GENERAL POLICY

The Institute encourages members of the Faculty to devote their talents to scholarship, all or part of which may result in sponsored programs. Programs at Rensselaer, whether internally or externally sponsored, originate from the ideas of Faculty members interested in engaging in research and sponsored programs as part of their normal professional activity. Faculty should discuss proposed research with their Department Chair or Dean to assure availability of space, equipment, staff, time commitments and related support for research.

Interdisciplinary activities are encouraged and generally well received by proposed sponsors. Special arrangements may be necessary, and they should be carefully worked out with the various groups to be involved before extensive proposal writing takes place.

Funding sources vary widely. Often the source is a government agency, but funding is also obtainable through corporations, foundations, or other private entities, while some programs are internally sponsored. Faculty members who seek sponsored funds or resources for a sponsored project should work closely with the Office of Research Administration and Finance.

Inadvertent co-mingling of funds or resources from separate sponsors is a concern when multiple sponsors are involved. Inappropriate co-mingling of funds or resources is a primary cause of intellectual property fragmentation, which may jeopardize or limit the rights available to each sponsor or engender conflicting obligations. It is essential that the Faculty become familiar with risks associated with fragmentation and Rensselaer’s contractual obligations when multiple sponsors are involved. The Office of Research Administration and Finance can provide guidance on the use of obligated funds and resources. The Office of Technology Commercialization can assist in the identification of intellectual property that is subject to third party obligations (see also The Rensselaer Intellectual Property Policy).

Establishment of Organized Research Units, Centers and Consortia requires certain approvals. In general, Faculty establish individual research programs in their own departments individually or in collaboration with colleagues. However, major research programs involving several Faculty members with complementary research interests may be organized into official research units. Such organized research units require approval by the Vice President for Research or the Provost before they can be officially recognized.

4.3 RESEARCH SUPPORT

Organizations sponsoring and supporting research and other programs at Rensselaer do so through grants, contracts, and special agreements or understandings, which are entered into with the Institute rather than with an individual Faculty or staff member. Although informal Faculty contact with sponsors, before or during the term of the contract, is encouraged, any commitment on the part of the Institute must be made through the Office of Research Administration and Finance.

4.3.1 Sponsored Research

Faculty should contact the Office of Research Administration and Finance as early as possible after departmental approval of their proposed research to insure smooth communication and to follow normal institutional procedures.

4.3.2 Gift Supported Research

The distinction between gifts and grants is important. If a Faculty member receives funding from a donor who does not impose contractual requirements and who provides the funds irrevocably, such funding is termed a gift. If funding involves provisions for audits by the grantor, or directions to satisfy particular requirements, deliverables or a detailed report of results or expenditures, or other such characteristics, such funding is generally termed a grant or research contract. The appropriate category is determined by applying the guidelines established by Rensselaer in conformance with Institute-wide procedures. For further information, contact the Office of Research Administration and Finance (see also Rensselaer Policy on Gifts, Grants, Memberships and Private Foundation Awards).
Activities that are the result of department, school or center initiatives that are broad in nature and for which no specific deliverables or administrative actions are required, are often supported by corporations and private foundations through gifts. Rensselaer aggressively solicits gifts of this nature through the Office of the Vice President for Research, especially in areas of major research focus. Faculty members should coordinate with the Office of the Vice President for Advancement and the Office of the Vice President for Research to insure coordinated communications through one of Rensselaer's many corporate or foundation partners.

4.4 RENSSELAER RESEARCH DILIGENCE

4.4.1 Government Classified and Proprietary Research

Rensselaer accepts only those sponsored programs that enhance the educational process. The results of these programs (theses, technical papers, etc.) must be publishable in the open literature within a reasonable time period. This policy does inhibit, but does not entirely prevent government classified or industrial proprietary research or projects on campus that result in classified output or proprietary information. In the event subsequent classification of an investigation is imposed by a government agency, the matter will be coordinated by the Office of Research Administration and Finance on a case-by-case basis.

Faculty members are not precluded by this policy from access to classified materials necessary to their work. Access to and storage of classified materials and documents and the securing of necessary personnel security clearances are coordinated through the Office of the Vice President for Research in accord with Rensselaer policies and procedures.

4.4.2 Contractual Responsibilities

The Institute acknowledges acceptance of a grant or research contract through the execution of a formal legal document by an individual with officially designated Institute-wide signature authority. In this document, the Institute assumes an obligation to perform and report findings of specified research work and to adhere to the terms and conditions of the grant or contract. Faculty are expected to adhere to established procedures designed to fulfill the terms of a grant or contract.

4.4.3 Recognition of Authors and Inventors

The title of principal investigator is primarily a designation of institutional responsibility for the conduct of a research project. As such, the title does not necessarily represent the authorship of a proposal document or inventorship of an intellectual property. Therefore, it is important that the authentic author(s) and inventors are appropriately given attribution in all documents.

4.4.4 Conflicts of Interest or Commitment

To identify, prevent, or manage real or perceived conflicts of interest or commitment when Faculty members engage simultaneously in sponsored programs, as well as consulting activities and other endeavors, the Rensselaer Policy on Conflicts of Interest or Commitment shall apply.

4.4.5 Rensselaer's Intellectual Property

The Office of Technology Commercialization seeks to protect and commercialize intellectual property consistent with Rensselaer’s policies and procedures. Where successful commercialization results in intellectual property revenue, the revenue is shared with the inventors and or authors (creators) in accord with Rensselaer’s Intellectual Property Policy and other relevant policies and procedures. Compliance with the Rensselaer Intellectual Property Policy is a condition of employment by Rensselaer. Prior to the implementation of any revisions to The Rensselaer Intellectual Property Policy, the Faculty Senate shall have the opportunity to review and provide its recommendations on proposed changes.

4.5 Delineation of Research Responsibilities

4.5.1 Principal Investigators

The principal investigator of a sponsored research project is responsible for both the technical aspects of the program and for adherence to the administrative and financial terms of the research contract. The principal investigator will expend contract funds in accordance with the contract budget, will certify the time and effort of research staff, will observe established Institute procedures regarding purchasing of materials and supplies, and will provide to the appropriate offices all information necessary to assure proper administration of the contract OR grant.

The day-to-day administration of a research contract or grant is the direct responsibility of the principal investigator named in the contract. This responsibility includes supervision of the technical aspects of the project and also administration of staff, accounting for expenses, and fulfillment of reporting requirements as specified in the contract or agreement. Additionally, the principal investigator must exercise due diligence in managing research and contractual obligations consistent with other relevant Rensselaer policies and procedures.

Principal Investigator Eligibility. In order to maintain a careful balance between scholarship and education, the responsibilities of being principal investigators is primarily reserved to the Faculty. As a result, the policy of Rensselaer is that only Faculty members may routinely serve as principal investigators on sponsored programs as outlined in Part 2.4 of this Handbook. Certain other titles are also allowed to serve as principal investigators subject to approval of the Provost or President. The responsibility for setting the direction of Rensselaer research rests squarely with the Faculty, who are primarily responsible for the quality of the research and the reputation of the Institute.

4.5.2 Research Staff and Other Project Participants

As part of the Rensselaer community, research staff and project participants are in a position of trust with a responsibility to manage Rensselaer projects and resources in a diligent manner for the purposes for which they are designated and in compliance with Rensselaer’s obligations to third parties. The Division of Human Resources should be consulted for complete information concerning retirement, health, disability, and other policies and benefits which may apply to research staff and other employees.

Student-Initiated Sponsored Programs. Certain sponsored programs have as their purpose the support of graduate and/or undergraduate education or research through student-initiated projects, (e.g., doctoral dissertations, pre-doctoral research fellowships, undergraduate research projects). For these sponsored programs, the following conditions apply: (1) A Faculty member, as identified in Part 2.4, must serve as Faculty Advisor; (2) The Faculty Advisor shall retain the responsibilities of a principal investigator under this policy; (3) The student shall be responsible for the intellectual conduct of the project within the oversight of the Faculty Advisor; (4) The proposal to the sponsor may name the student as key personnel, as long as a faculty advisor is named as the responsible individual. The proposal should acknowledge the student's authorship of the proposal, as appropriate.

4.5.3 Office of Research Administration and Finance

The Office of Research Administration and Finance (RAF) is responsible for all administrative, financial, and compliance matters relating to sponsored research. These include, but are not limited to: proposal submission; the negotiation and processing of awards; financial cash management, billing, reporting; and compliance as well as indirect cost recovery and audits. The Office of Research Administration and Finance is responsible for implementing all research administrative and financial policies and procedures, and has signing authority to accept and terminate research awards on behalf of Rensselaer. The responsibility for regular internal reporting of research and financial activity in accordance with defined metrics and associated statistical analysis, detailed financial record keeping, and external reporting to sponsors and government agencies as required, also rests with this Office. The Office of Research Administration and Finance works in concert with the Faculty and research staff, the school and departmental financial managers, the Vice President for Research, and the Office of Technology Commercialization on issues involving sponsored research activity.

4.5.4 Office of Technology Commercialization

The Office of Technology Commercialization and the Office of Research Administration and Finance will coordinate efforts related to the transfer of technology, particularly in the case where there is ongoing research on a licensed intellectual property. The Office of Technology Commercialization will investigate and determine any contractual obligations or restrictions on intellectual property at the point of its receipt of an intellectual property disclosure. (see also The Rensselaer Intellectual Property Policy).

4.5.5 Department Chairs and Center Directors

Department Chairs and Center Directors are responsible for the administration of research activities conducted by the Faculty of the department or center. Department Chairs and Center Directors will assist Faculty in selecting appropriate research projects; confirm the availability of Institute facilities; and recommend the appointment of research staff to the Deans with the concurrence of the principal investigator.

4.5.6 Deans

The Dean of each school is responsible for supervising the administration of research activities conducted by the Faculty of the school and approving the general nature and direction of research at the Institute.

4.5.7 Vice President for Research

The Office of the Vice President for Research coordinates major research themes and programs through interdisciplinary research centers. The office provides infrastructure and resource support for the development of research programs and projects. Support services are offered for Faculty seeking research opportunities, research proposal and budget preparation, and guidance on research management. The website of the Office of the Vice President for Research provides overviews of research centers and major research projects and information on research policies, guidelines, and infrastructure.

The Office of the Provost and the Office of the Vice President for Research, in conjunction with the academic Deans, share responsibility for establishing research direction, policy and guidelines, encouraging Faculty participation in research and sponsored program activities, serving as information liaison between sponsoring agencies, communicating pertinent information to Faculty regarding areas of research potential, setting compensation rates and allowable dates for supplemental employment of academic personnel, approving research proposals, and administering research cost sharing.
PART 5. RESOLUTION PROCEDURES

5.1 INTRODUCTION

To advance the collective function of the Institute and its Faculty, this Part outlines procedures which ensure fairness in the resolution of conflicts which may arise under the provisions of this Handbook. The Appeals, Grievance and Misconduct procedures outlined herein are intended to provide a method of recourse that fosters constructive deliberation on actions taken by the Institute and its Faculty. This Part 5 applies only to Faculty as defined in this Handbook. Resolution procedures related to termination are discussed in Part 2.14.

5.2 APPEALING PROMOTION AND/OR TENURE DECISIONS

Part 5.2 applies to Tenure Faculty only as defined in this Handbook. If a candidate receives a negative decision concerning promotion or tenure at any level, he or she has the right to appeal the decision. In making an appeal, the candidate shall choose an advocate whose role is as follows:

The Advocate. The Advocate is to be selected by the individual whose case is to be appealed. The selection is to be made from among the tenured Faculty at Rensselaer. The advocate may be the Chair of the appellant's department, may be an individual within the department, or may be an individual outside the department. Before accepting the role of advocate, the individual chosen shall be apprised of his or her rights and responsibilities in this role by the Chair of the FCPT, particularly concerning the obligation of confidentiality. The advocate may also review the case with the Provost.

The Process. After reviewing the written comments concerning the reasons for the original negative action, the advocate shall have the responsibility of reviewing the appellant's dossier, suggesting improvements and additions, and assembling any pertinent clarifications and additions. The written result of the advocate's review is added to the candidate's dossier, and a copy of the dossier, from which all confidential material has been removed, is transmitted to the appellant. The appellant has the right to submit additional written material in support of the appeal.

(a) The advocate shall then submit the revised dossier to the Provost for resubmission through the entire review process, with the stipulation that it be forwarded with written comments at each level of review, regardless of the recommendations or decisions at each point.
(b) The advocate may be requested to appear or may request to appear before any of the committees involved in the tenure and promotion process and the Provost.

(c) In cases where all members of the FCPT vote for a candidate following the appeal process, but the Provost does not concur with this recommendation, the Provost shall explain the reasons for this decision to the FCPT. The FCPT has the right to request that the Provost appoint an ad hoc committee to reexamine the case. The executive committee of the Faculty Senate shall present a slate of five (5) names to the Provost who will select three (3) to serve on the ad hoc committee. This committee shall review the dossier for the candidate and report its recommendation, in writing, to the Provost.

(d) The Provost shall arrive at a final recommendation and forward that to the President.

5.3 MISCONDUCT IN SCHOLARLY ACTIVITIES

5.3.1 Introduction

It is the responsibility of the Institute to create conditions that protect and encourage the Faculty in its scholarly pursuits. Rensselaer requires that those engaged in scholarship be dedicated to the highest ethical standards. Misconduct in scholarship by any member of the Rensselaer community threatens the Institute as well as the individual. In addition, universities that receive support from federal agencies are required to develop procedures for investigating incidents of misconduct. Section 5.3 describes the Rensselaer policy and outlines the steps to be taken in response to allegations of misconduct. The process applies to all Faculty, both the Tenure Faculty and Non-Tenure Faculty, as defined in this Handbook and provides for an objective examination of pertinent facts, protection of individual rights, and integration with other relevant review procedures, all under the general supervision of the Provost as the senior academic administrator.

5.3.2 Definition of Scholarly Misconduct

Scholarly Misconduct means:

(a) Fabrication, falsification, plagiarism, inappropriate allocation of authorship credit, or other serious deviation from accepted practices in proposing, carrying out, or reporting technical results and expenditure of funds from research, educational or other scholarly activities; or
(b) Retaliation of any kind against a person who has not acted in bad faith and who reported or provided information about suspected or alleged misconduct; or

(c) Failure to comply with Federal requirements affecting specific aspects of the conduct of research, e.g., the protection of human subjects and the welfare of laboratory animals.

Scholarly Misconduct does not include honest error or honest differences in interpretations or judgments of scholarly matters. If the alleged misconduct is not substantiated, the Institute will undertake diligent efforts to restore the reputation of those under investigation. Should either the inquiry or the investigation show that the allegations of misconduct were not made in good faith, those making the allegations will themselves be subject to disciplinary action.

5.3.3 Scholarly Misconduct Policy

Decisions regarding alleged misconduct procedures should yield a just decision based on the best, and most complete, information available. Any decisions should be based on the expert judgment of individuals qualified in the respective scientific field, using scientific interpretations and standards of proof, with a minimum of procedural complications. At the same time, however, the process must be fair and afford all parties an equal chance to present their best arguments. The confidentiality of all parties in a dispute must be preserved to the extent consistent with Rensselaer's obligations to research sponsors and to the scientific community. Acrimony and recriminations are undesirable, so adversarial interactions should be avoided. Yet in an open society it is essential that the respondent has the opportunity to respond to the complaint. The process should move speedily, in accord with the reporting requirements of the sponsoring agency, yet haste and error must be avoided. Guided by these principles, Rensselaer has established a policy with four procedural stages, a description of which follows.

In the screening stage an accusation is brought to the Provost who will examine the charges to ensure they are potential violations of the misconduct policy and, if so, to pass the case along to an Inquiry Panel.

The inquiry stage evaluates the merits of the case, determining whether there is sufficient evidence of misconduct to merit a full investigation.

The investigation stage entails a detailed examination of the case to resolve the facts ("Was this or was this not an instance of misconduct?"). Ascertaining whether or not misconduct occurred is a judgment about collegial conduct that should be resolved on its merits. If at any stage in the process it becomes evident that there was no misconduct, vigorous efforts must be made to minimize and remedy any adverse consequences for the respondent’s career and reputation.
If misconduct is established, then the case is referred to the disciplinary stage.

Screening Stage. Initial reports of alleged research misconduct must be brought to the attention of the person with administrative responsibility for the individual whose actions are in question. That person must in turn report the allegations to the Provost. Should this reporting not occur, the Provost may be contacted directly. Care must be taken to protect the privacy of those who report apparent misconduct. The Provost will promptly examine the case and determine if the case falls under the Misconduct Policy. If so, the inquiry stage will be followed.

Inquiry Stage. The Provost will immediately inform the respondent in writing of the accusation and that an inquiry has been initiated. The Provost will prepare a list of proposed members for the Inquiry Panel. The respondent may challenge the inclusion of specific individuals to this panel by stating his or her objections in writing. The Provost will then select the Inquiry Panel.

The inquiry will be conducted by a Panel consisting of two Faculty members and one academic administrator with rank of Associate Dean or higher. The Panel will choose its Chair. The Panel should take no more than 30 days to conduct its inquiry and determine whether or not there is a reasonable basis to conclude that misconduct occurred. During this discovery stage, the only persons who may be present during fact finding sessions are the respondent, the complainant, Inquiry Panel members, and any consultant called by the Inquiry Panel. The respondent will be permitted to be present during fact finding sessions and have the right to respond to questions as they arise. If the respondent is not available to attend, the Provost will fairly resolve the conflict between timeliness and the respondent’s right to be present.

If a majority of the Inquiry Panel finds there is reasonable basis to conclude that misconduct occurred, then the matter must proceed to the investigation stage. The Inquiry Panel reports the results of its inquiry to the Provost. The Provost will advise, in writing, the respondent and the complainant of the Inquiry Panel outcome. If there is to be an investigation, the Provost must advise the respondent in writing of the specific charges to be investigated. At that time, any collaborators and sponsoring agencies involved must be informed of the allegations.

Investigation Stage. Investigation of alleged misconduct will be conducted by a committee appointed by the Provost. The committee will be comprised of a minimum of three specialists in the subject area of the respondent and will include one individual from outside Rensselaer. The Provost will prepare a list of proposed members for the Investigation Panel, which may include persons who served on the Inquiry Panel. The respondent may challenge the inclusion of specific individuals by stating any objections in writing. The Provost will then select, and appoint, the Investigation Panel. The Panel will elect its own Chair.
The Investigation Panel will determine whether there was academic misconduct. The Panel will follow the procedures for dealing with charges brought against a Faculty member as described herein and will seek to provide factual information in a manner that is fair to all parties. The Investigation Panel should take no more than 120 days to complete the investigation and prepare a report of its findings including a recommendation on the disposition of the case. The Panel should follow pertinent regulations of the agency or agencies that sponsored the research under investigation. The Investigation Panel will submit its report to the Provost, who in turn may notify the sponsoring agency of the findings of the investigation.

Disciplinary Stage. For individuals found to have committed misconduct, the Provost may take one or more of the following actions: (1) given a letter of reprimand; (2) monitored regarding their work performance; or (3) be removed from a specific research project. Other, more severe, penalties including (4) being barred from conducting sponsored research, (5) reduction in rank, (6) suspension for a fixed period of time, or (7) termination. Termination shall be in accord with procedures specified in section 2.14 of this Handbook. However, the findings of misconduct made by the Investigation Panel convened pursuant to this section and forwarded to the Provost will be conclusive, in their entirety, and not subject to re-examination by any person at the termination hearing. The sole authority of the Hearing Panel convened pursuant to section 2.14 will be to determine if the findings and recommendations of the Investigation Panel are sufficient to warrant termination.

If there is a finding of misconduct, the Provost must also take the following actions: (1) All pending abstracts emanating from the fraudulent research should be withdrawn and editors of journals in which previous abstracts and papers appeared should be notified of the findings of the investigation; (2) Institutions and sponsoring agencies with which the investigated individual has been affiliated should be notified that there is reason to believe that the validity of previous research might be questionable.

5.4  GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE FOR FACULTY

5.4.1  Introduction

The majority of Faculty concerns can be settled informally through effective communication with colleagues. Therefore, before filing a grievance, Faculty must have exhausted the other avenues available to them. The prospective grievant must have attempted to resolve the issue with the involved individual, with the individual’s immediate supervisor, and with the prospective grievant’s own immediate supervisor. If these attempts fail, then the Faculty member may turn to the grievance process.

A grievance is a charge that a decision or action has been improperly or unfairly made or taken, that the decision or action adversely affects the grievant, and that there is a dispute between the grievant and the person who made the decision. This person may be an administrator or the grievant's fellow Faculty member.

5.4.2 Grievable Issues

A grievance shall be defined as a charge alleging a violation or incorrect application of an Institute policy, procedure, or practice which is not covered under another Institute grievance or appeal mechanism (e.g., promotion of a Non-Tenure Faculty). Some examples of "grievable issues" include: salary adjustment, teaching assignments, facilities and space issues, reduction in rank, suspension for a fixed period and disputes among Faculty over intellectual property.

5.4.3 Non-grievable Issues

The following issues are not considered grievable issues: (1) promotion and tenure of a Tenure Faculty; (2) non-reappointment; (3) Affirmative Action and EEO complaints; (4) sexual harassment; (5) broad areas of fiscal management, staffing or structure of the Institute; (6) issues pertaining to differences in Faculty salaries and benefits that are based upon labor market factors such as availability of Faculty or demand for a particular academic discipline; (7) retirement and employee benefit issues that are covered by New York State and Federal laws or that are covered by other Institute appeals procedures; (8) any matters falling exclusively within the jurisdiction of other Institute appeal procedures, as defined in either the Faculty Handbook or the Human Resources Policy Guidelines; and (9) decisions or actions resulting from other Institute appeal procedures referenced in this Handbook.

5.4.4 The Grievance Procedure

If the informal attempts to resolve a grievance have failed, the aggrieved may choose to file a formal grievance. At this time, the grievant shall inform the appropriate administrator (e.g., Chair, Dean, Provost), or the grievant’s direct supervisor, that he or she is filing a formal grievance with the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate.

Filing a Grievance. The grievant will submit a written complaint to the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate. In order to be timely, a grievance must be filed within six months after discovery of the event or action that is the basis for the grievance. No concurrent legal action is allowed. If such action is started, the grievance process will be immediately terminated. The complaint will include the following: (a) the date that the grievant discovered the decision/action that resulted in the problem; (b) the name of the person against whom the grievance is directed, the respondent; (c) the nature of the grievance; and (d) evidence of any measures that have already been taken to resolve the problem.
The Executive Committee will inform the respondent of the complaint and will provide him/her with a copy of the grievance. The respondent will provide a written response to the complaint to the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate and the grievant within ten working days of receiving this notice. The Executive Committee will then decide whether or not the grievance appears to warrant further consideration. If the grievance does not warrant further consideration, the matter will be considered closed. If it does warrant further consideration, the grievance will move to the mediation step. In either case, the Executive committee of the Faculty Senate will notify the grievant and respondent of its recommendation promptly upon receiving the response from the respondent.

Mediation. A grievance, that is considered by the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate to warrant further consideration of the Faculty Senate, will be turned over to an ad hoc Grievance Committee of the Faculty Senate. The Grievance Committee will be comprised of three members of the Rensselaer Faculty. The Grievance Committee will make an effort to mediate the dispute before it proceeds to a hearing. The Grievance Committee also will attempt to informally and confidentially resolve the differences between the two parties. The Grievance Committee will make a recommendation to achieve a voluntary resolution of the dispute, but will not be allowed to make a binding recommendation. The Grievance Committee should, when possible, begin the mediation process within ten (10) working days of receiving their charge.

Before beginning the mediation process, the Grievance Committee will receive a briefing from the President of the Faculty Senate. This briefing will include dissemination of a copy of the complaint as well as the response of the respondent. The President of the Faculty Senate will also review the grievance procedure, clarify time limits, and answer questions regarding the procedure. The President of the Faculty Senate will not be allowed to discuss specific aspects of the complaint or express personal opinions concerning its merits.

The Hearing. If a dispute cannot be resolved through mediation, a hearing may be requested by the grievant. An ad hoc Hearing Committee composed of three voting members of the Faculty, not previously involved in the case, shall be appointed by the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate. The Hearing Committee is subject to approval by the grievant, the respondent, and the Provost. The grievant or the respondent or the Provost may each veto one member of the Committee. If this veto power is exercised, another Faculty member will be chosen, and no further veto shall be allowed. In no event shall a member be allowed to serve if he or she has a conflict with the grievant or the respondent. Individuals who have had previous involvement with the grievance (e.g., at the mediation stage or through the informal resolution process followed prior to filing the grievance) will not be allowed to participate as a member of the Hearing Committee. In addition, individuals having made a decision relating to matters involving the grievance will not be allowed to serve. The final Hearing Committee will elect a Chair, who will be allowed to vote. Before beginning the hearing, the Hearing Committee will receive a briefing from the President of the Faculty Senate. This briefing will include dissemination of a copy of the complaint as well as the response of the respondent. The President of the Faculty Senate will also review the grievance procedure, clarify time limits, and answer questions regarding the procedure. The President of the Faculty Senate will not discuss specific aspects of the complaint or express personal opinions concerning its merits.

(a) The hearing will be presided over by the ad hoc Hearing Committee. If possible, the hearing shall be held within thirty calendar days of the day that the hearing was requested.

(b) The hearing is not a legal proceeding, and strict rules of evidence do not apply. The Hearing Committee may admit and consider any relevant evidence. Personnel information, including salary data, performance evaluations, and student evaluations, will not be available unless released by the grievant or respondent.

(c) Both the grievant and the respondent may have a Rensselaer colleague, other than an attorney, to assist in the presentation of their case. Only Rensselaer employees shall serve in that capacity.

(d) The hearing will be private. Individuals present will include the Hearing Committee, the respondent, the grievant and his/her chosen colleagues, and any witnesses as requested by the parties and directed by the Hearing Committee. A representative of the Administration may also be allowed to attend the hearing if the Hearing Committee determines the Administration may have information relevant to the grievance. Attorneys other than Rensselaer faculty members will not be allowed to attend the hearing.

(e) Under directions from the Hearing Committee, each party shall give to the other party such advance notice of its intended witnesses, and such advance copies of, or a list of its intended exhibits, as may be practicable. The goal shall be to expedite the proceedings and to minimize the element of surprise as an advantage to either party.

(f) During a hearing, both parties shall have the following rights: (1) to call and examine witnesses; to introduce written evidence; (2) to cross-examine any witnesses on any matter relevant to the grievance; (3) to challenge any witness; and to rebut any evidence. The grievant and respondent may testify and may be requested to answer questions posed by each party and the Hearing Committee. The personal appearance of each witness normally will be required to assure the opportunity for cross-examination and examination by the Hearing Committee. In extraordinary circumstances, the Hearing Committee may receive an individual's sworn written statement or other form of proof in lieu of a personal appearance.
(g) A copy of each exhibit reviewed by the Hearing Committee shall be supplied to the other party by the offering party.

(h) After all oral and written evidence and argument has been presented, the hearing shall be closed. The Hearing Committee shall conduct its deliberations privately.

Hearing Committee Report. Within a reasonable time after the closing of the hearing, but in no event to exceed sixty calendar days, the Hearing Committee shall make a written report, based on evidence presented during the hearing, with findings and recommendations.

Decision of the President of the Institute. The President of the Institute or designee shall consider the report of the Hearing Committee, but the President shall make the final decision. The President's written decision shall be sent to each party and the members of the Hearing Committee and the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate within sixty calendar days of receiving the Hearing Committee's report.

Confidentiality and the Right to Privacy. The work of the Committees described above requires a high level of sensitivity to the privacy of all concerned. Thus, all members of the Grievance Committee, Hearing Committee, Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate, grievant, respondent, and Institute colleagues are required to maintain confidentiality with respect to all oral proceedings and written documents produced during the case.

(a) After the proceedings have concluded, the Hearing Committee shall forward all records and documents produced in the case to the Provost for storage in a confidential file.

(b) If during investigation of the grievance, individuals are questioned about the complaint, they shall be informed of the confidentiality of the information provided and of their obligation to maintain confidentiality about their participation in the investigation.

(c) Any violations of the confidentiality obligation will be subject to appropriate disciplinary action.
PART 6. FACULTY BENEFITS AND LEAVES

As employees of the Institute, Faculty members are provided with comprehensive benefits and leave programs. Among some of the benefits offered are retirement and tuition benefits and medical, dental and life insurances. Among the types of leaves offered are leaves of absence, sabbatical leaves, parental leaves and military leaves. There are specific criteria that determine if an employee is eligible to participate in a particular benefit or leave program. The Vice President for Human Resources will inform the Faculty Senate of any proposed changes to benefits programs that affect current or retired faculty before implementation.

Some key points of Rensselaer's current benefit and leave programs are highlighted in what follows. The terms of these programs are subject to change or termination. The actual terms of the various plans are stated in the formal plan documents and are subject to eligibility and other limitations. For complete, up-to-date program documents, or for any other information about Rensselaer benefit and leave programs, contact the Division of Human Resources.

In addition, The Rensselaer Human Resources Benefits Booklet is available from the Division of Human Resources. This publication provides a reliable source of information about benefits and is updated regularly. Enrollment applications and booklets describing individual plans are available upon request. Several publications and forms are provided online at www.rpi.edu.

6.1 RETIREMENT PROGRAM

Retirement Plan: Under each of Rensselaer's retirement plans, eligible employees may choose from several retirement payment methods that can provide continuing income to a spouse or other beneficiary after the employee’s death. The actual terms of the programs are stated in and governed by official program documents. Participation in Rensselaer retirement programs is voluntary and contingent upon receipt by the Division of Human Resources of the applicable completed enrollment applications and forms.

Defined Contribution Retirement Program: The Defined Contribution Program provides a retirement benefit based on a combined contribution by Rensselaer and an eligible employee. The amount of the retirement depends on the value of the account balances, with earnings, at the time distributions are made. The account balances will depend on length of participation in the program, the employee’s compensation amount, and the investment performance of amounts contributed by Rensselaer.
Defined Benefit Retirement Program: Faculty employed prior to July 1, 1993 may be participating in a Defined Benefits Retirement Program. Questions regarding this program should be referred to the Division of Human Resources.

Supplemental Retirement Program: In addition to participation in the retirement plans described above, eligible employees may divert part of their earnings (on a pre-tax basis) into the Supplemental Retirement Program, thereby reducing the amount of W-2 earnings on which State and Federal income taxes are paid. These contributions will be taxed later upon distribution, e.g., at retirement.

6.2 LIABILITY PROGRAM

For the protection of eligible employees, the Institute carries General and Professional Liability insurance on behalf of employees for activities arising out of the scope of employment. The Institute's liability insurance indemnifies all Faculty, staff and volunteers when their endeavors are related to Institute business and consistent with Institute policies. The actual terms of the coverage are stated in the formal insurance policies and are subject to eligibility and other limitations.

6.3 FACULTY EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

Rensselaer currently provides eligible Faculty members with comprehensive benefits through its medical insurance program, dental insurance program, employee assistance program, and other employee programs. Contact the Division of Human Resources for complete information on Rensselaer employee benefits.

6.4 TUITION BENEFIT PROGRAM

Faculty Tuition: All Faculty as defined in this Handbook who are eligible under Rensselaer’s Human Resources policies may register for up to two courses per semester offered by Rensselaer, with the approval of the Office of the Provost. All other cases regarding educational opportunities and benefits for Faculty are subject to the approval of the Office of the Provost after a recommendation is made by the appropriate Department Chair and Dean of the school concerned. In addition, tuition benefits are available for spouses and dependent children of eligible faculty.

6.5 LEAVE PROGRAM

Leave of Absence: Faculty may be granted a leave of absence for a specified period, subject to approval. Normally such leaves of absence are without financial aid. However, in certain instances wherein granting of such a leave may be considered of benefit to the Institute, the payment of financial aid with regard to certain fringe benefits may be extended. Such instances may be, but are not limited to, service with the National Science Foundation; a Congressional Fellowship; service as technical advisor to government agencies, both domestic and international. In such instances the offices of the appropriate Department Chair, Dean, and Provost shall determine the advisability and extent of such aid, with the approval of the Provost. Contributions to the fringe benefits program may continue in the event that the salary from outside sources does not meet the total contractual compensation from salaries and fringe benefits that would have been received from Rensselaer during the period of the leave. (See also, Part 2.11.2 on Pre-Tenure Period Extension).

Sabbatical Leave Plan: Faculty are strongly encouraged to take advantage of this plan at least once every ten years. Eligible Faculty may request sabbatical leaves for purposes of professional development through study, research, scholarly activity or experience in government, industry, universities or consulting in the practice. All requests for sabbatical leave require the approval of the Department Chair and the respective academic Dean, prior to approval by the Provost. To receive full consideration, completed requests for sabbatical leave should be processed through the appropriate channels and filed with the Provost no later than April 1. Response will be made as soon as possible, usually within two weeks.

(a) Non-Tenure Faculty: All individuals holding titles among the Non-Tenure Faculty are eligible for up to six months of unpaid sabbatical leave with continuing benefits, upon completion of twelve semesters of service.

(b) Tenure Faculty: All individuals holding titles among the Tenure Faculty are eligible for the following: (See also, Part 2.11.2 on Pre-Tenure Period Extension).

(i) Leave for one semester, with half salary, may be given upon completion of six consecutive semesters of service.

(ii) Leave of two semesters with half salary, or one semester with full salary, may be given upon completion of twelve semesters of service. Two semester leaves should normally start July 1.

When a Faculty member is granted sabbatical leave, the Institute will continue to contribute its respective portion of the cost of fringe benefits. The Division of Human Resources should be contacted for complete details.

While on leave, the Faculty member’s performance should be reviewed in the normal way for a salary increment. Any member of the Rensselaer Faculty who accepts a sabbatical leave is obligated to return to Rensselaer for at least one complete year of service and to submit to the Provost, through normal administrative channels, a report covering professional activities during his or her absence. Faculty members for whom sabbatical leave has been approved may receive additional remuneration from:

1. Normal consulting or lecturing arrangements, provided these do not conflict with the purpose and spirit of the sabbatical program.

2. Fellowships and other grants, provided the sum of the sabbatical salary and additional fellowship or grant does not exceed the full-time salary rate for the period of leave.

3. Grants to defray family travel and nominal cost-of-living allowances provided they are not for personal remuneration in addition to fellowship and other grants.

4. Charges to research contracts provided the research contract allows and the sum total of remuneration during this period does not exceed the amount of salary scheduled for this period.

Parental Leave: The Tenure Faculty will be granted relief from teaching duties for parental leave for one semester with full pay, and they may elect to take an additional semester of teaching relief at half pay for parental leave. Faculty members granted relief from teaching duties under this Policy, except as entitled under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), will continue to be responsible for normal non-teaching duties such as research commitments, professional development, advising and committee assignments. The Faculty member’s teaching duties will be assumed by a temporary replacement who will be paid jointly by the Office of the Provost and the school of the Faculty member.

Leaves granted under this Policy will be counted towards the Faculty member's leave entitlement under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) in accordance with Rensselaer policies applicable to all employees.

Parental leave for the Tenure Faculty is defined as leave to give birth to a child, to adopt a child or to care for a newborn or newly adopted child. All parental leaves of absence under this Policy must be taken and completed within twelve months of the date of birth or adoption.

Insofar as possible, the commencement of a parental leave at full or half pay must coincide with the beginning or end of a semester. A parental leave which commences after the beginning of an academic semester will be counted as a leave for one full semester under this Policy.

With the written approval of the Provost and the Dean obtained in advance of the leave, eligible Faculty members have the option of stopping the tenure clock for up to one year during a parental leave, provided this election is specified in the written notice of the Faculty member's intent to take a leave. The Provost should be consulted for additional details regarding tenure decisions. For additional information on extensions of the pre-tenure period, see Part 2.11.2.

When the need for a parental leave is foreseeable, a Tenure Faculty member electing to take such a leave must submit a written notice to the Department Chair (the Dean in a school without departments), with a copy to the Provost, at least 30 days prior, to the beginning of the semester during which the leave is to be taken. In the event it is not possible to provide 30 days advance notice, a Faculty member must submit his or her written notice as early as possible, but in no event less than two business days before the leave is to commence. In all cases, written medical documentation or a certificate of adoption must be provided by the Faculty member to the Division of Human Resources.

Rensselaer currently has policies on Family and Medical Leave, Military Leave, Sick Leave, Bereavement Leave and Vacation Leave. Consult the Division of Human Resources for details.
Appendix 1
Constitution of the Faculty Senate

The following version of the Constitution of the Faculty Senate incorporates changes approved by the Faculty during the 2004 Spring Ballot and that are understood to have been approved by the Board of Trustees during their May, 2004 meeting.

I. Purpose

The Faculty Senate shall serve the Faculty on issues affecting the common purposes of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The Faculty's role in the creation, understanding, and dissemination of knowledge is held in the highest esteem, and will not be abridged. The Senate shall represent Faculty interests in the broader issues of education and research, including Curriculum, Promotion and Tenure, and Planning, and Resources. The Senate shall advise the President of the Institute and the Board of Trustees as to the Faculty views in all matters. The resolutions of the Senate shall guide Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in scholarly activities and instruction. Important issues affecting the Faculty in general will be presented, with recommendations for action, at a general meeting of the Faculty each semester.

II. Membership

A. Personnel

i. For the purposes of Senate business, the term "Faculty" includes persons having the title Professor, Associate Professor, Assistant Professor, Research Professor, Research Associate Professor, Research Assistant Professor, Librarian, Archivist and Assistant Archivist, and also includes those retired from these positions. Persons holding an administrative position at or above the level of department chair or department head, or in direct report to a Provost or President, including but not limited to those having the title Dean, Associate Dean, Assistant Dean, Provost, Associate Provost, Vice Provost, Vice President or President are not eligible to hold a Senate office except as listed below. If a person is appointed to a position having this title while holding a Senate office, he or she shall resign from the Senate office or delay accepting the administrative appointment.

ii. The Faculty Senate shall consist of fifteen regular members (to include one member from each School, one from the retired faculty, one from Rensselaer at Hartford, one from the Library, and six members at large), a President of the Senate, a Vice President of the Senate, a Secretary, a Recording Secretary, a Chair of the Faculty, a Secretary of the Faculty, and the Chairs of three Special Committees. The Provost shall also serve as an ex officio non-voting member.
B. Succession

The Faculty shall elect from its ranks the regular members of the Senate to serve two-year terms. Faculty shall also elect from its ranks the Vice President of the Senate and the Recording Secretary of the Senate. The Vice President of the Senate shall succeed to the position of President of the Senate in the second year, and in the third year shall serve as the Chair of the Faculty. The Recording Secretary of the Faculty shall succeed to the position of Secretary in the second year, and in the third year shall serve as the Secretary of the Faculty.

III. Structure

The Faculty Senate shall maintain an Executive Committee, a Curriculum Committee, a Promotion and Tenure Committee, a Planning and Resources Committee, an Election Committee, a Faculty Committee on Honors, and standing committees.

A. The Executive Committee

i. Composition. The Executive Committee shall consist of the President of the Senate, the Vice President, the Secretary of the Senate, the Recording Secretary of the Senate, the Chair of the Faculty, and the Secretary of the Faculty.

ii. Duties. The Executive Committee shall plan and coordinate the business of the Faculty Senate, to include scheduling meetings, preparing the agendas for Senate meetings and general Faculty meetings, and inviting appropriate interested parties to attend meetings.

a. Duties of the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall preside at meetings of the Faculty Senate. The President of the Senate shall only cast a vote on issues before the Senate in the case of a tie vote. The President of the Senate shall give a financial statement, including a report on transactions during the year, at the spring general Faculty meeting.

b. Duties of the Vice President of the Senate. The Vice President of the Senate shall assume the duties of the President of the Senate in case the President of the Senate shall be unable to do so. The Vice President of the Senate shall act as Parliamentarian for the Faculty Senate.

c. Duties of the Secretary. The Secretary shall take the minutes of the general Faculty meetings, issue the agendas for general Faculty meetings, and distribute the minutes of these meetings with the minutes of the Faculty Senate. The Secretary of the Senate shall be responsible for maintaining order in the records of academic policy approved by the Faculty and the records of the Faculty Senate business.

d. Duties of the Recording Secretary. The Recording Secretary shall take the minutes of the Faculty Senate, issue the agendas for Senate meetings and distribute the minutes to the general Faculty.

e. Duties of the Chair of the Faculty. The Chair of the Faculty shall preside at the general Faculty meetings. The Chair of the Faculty shall provide a written report annually on the state of the Institute from the Faculty perspective. The Chair of the Faculty shall serve as a member of the Faculty Senate, and shall represent the views of the Faculty to the President of the Institute and to the President's advisors.

f. Duties of the Secretary of the Faculty. The Secretary of the Faculty shall be responsible for conducting the annual review of the Faculty Handbook, and recommending changes to the Senate. The Secretary of the Faculty shall keep the Faculty roll. The Secretary of the Faculty shall serve as a member of the Faculty Senate, and shall represent the views of the Faculty to the Academic Deans and their advisors.

B. The Curriculum Committee

The educational offerings of the Faculty shall be of the highest quality, to inspire students, colleagues, and society in general toward the goals of lifetime learning and contributions to the common good. To assure this quality, the Curriculum Committee shall take responsibility for the educational offerings of the Faculty.

i. Composition. The Faculty Committee on Curriculum shall consist of seven members of the Faculty, elected for three-year terms. There shall be one representative from each School and two members at large. There shall also be one representative from the Dean's office for each School. There shall also be two undergraduate student members, and one graduate student member selected by the Student Senate. The Chair shall be selected from the elected members of the Committee by the Executive Committee. Also, with the consent of the President of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, the Dean of Undergraduate Education, the Dean of Graduate Education, and the Registrar shall serve as ex officio non-voting members; the Dean of Undergraduate Education shall act as permanent Executive Secretary and the Registrar shall act as permanent Recording Secretary of the Curriculum Committee.

ii. Duties. The Curriculum Committee shall consider proposals for changes in courses of instruction, requirements for majors in each subject, for new curriculums, and changes or discontinuations in existing curriculums. It shall determine that adequate provisions are made to inform faculty and students of any curriculum changes and their consequences. The Committee shall consider proposals for changes in the Core Curriculum and make suitable recommendations to the Faculty for action at a general Faculty meeting. The Committee shall encourage innovations in instruction and in pedagogical materials and media.

Following appropriate review and approval by the Senate or the Faculty, decisions of the Committee to approve or terminate programs shall become binding with the approval of the President of the Institute. The President of the Institute shall act with all deliberate speed either to approve the decision (and, as necessary, to request the approval of the Board of Trustees), or to convey a notice of rejection to the President of the Senate, giving cause for the rejection.

C. The Promotion and Tenure Committee

Attracting, developing, and maintaining high-quality Faculty is essential to the common purposes of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

i. Composition. The Faculty Committee on Promotion and Tenure shall consist of eight Full Professors with Tenure serving three-year terms. There shall be one member from each School and two members at large to be elected by the Faculty. There shall be one member from each School and two members at large to be elected by the Faculty. The two at-large members cannot be from the same School. In addition, there shall be one member, a Full Professor with Tenure, who is elected annually by the Students during Grand Marshal Week. The Chair of the Promotion and Tenure Committee shall be selected from the elected members by the Executive Committee.

ii. Duties. Duties of the Promotion and Tenure Committee and criteria for promotion are specified in the Faculty Handbook.

D. The Planning and Resources Committee

In order to facilitate the educational and research missions of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, the Planning and Resources Committee shall participate in strategic planning and identifying necessary resources and facilities to achieve long-term goals and ensure the fair and proper distribution thereof.

i. Composition. The Planning and Resources Committee shall consist of eight members of the Faculty, elected to three-year terms. There shall be one faculty member from each School and three members at large. The Chair shall be selected from the elected members by the Senate Executive Committee. With the consent of the President of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, the Academic Deans (or their non-voting designates) shall serve as ex officio voting members, and the Controller, the Director for Development, and the Director of Government Relations shall serve as ex officio non-voting members.

ii. Duties. The Committee shall review all proposals to approve new programs or to terminate existing programs that, due to their scale or uniqueness, bear substantial impact on the Institute community at large. Following timely re-view and approval by the Senate or the Faculty, decisions of the Committee to endorse the creation of new programs or the termination of existing programs shall become binding with the approval of the President of the Institute.

The President of the Institute shall act with all deliberate speed either to approve the decision (and, as necessary, to request the approval of the Board of Trustees), or to convey a notice of rejection to the President of the Senate, giving cause for the rejection.

The Committee shall participate in the formation of the Institute budget and shall recommend Senate action concerning the endorsement of the final budget. During this process, any member of the Faculty shall have the opportunity to examine the budget and to raise questions about it.

E. The Election Committee

i. Composition. The Election Committee shall consist of the Vice President of the Senate, who shall act as the Chair of the Election Committee, six elected members of the Faculty (one from each School, and one from the Library), and the Dean of Undergraduate and Continuing Education.

ii. Duties. The Election Committee shall issue a public call for nominations and shall provide a slate of eligible Faculty willing to run in the election for the positions to be filled on the Curriculum Committee, on the Promotion and Tenure Committee, on the Planning and Resources Committee, on the Election Committee, for Vice President of the Senate, for Recording Secretary of the Senate, and for the regular members of the Faculty Senate. The slate of nominees shall be sent to the Faculty at least one week before the Election. Further nominations may be offered to the Election Committee in writing. The Election Committee shall be responsible for seeing that any Faculty election is completed fairly and in a timely fashion.

F. Faculty Committee on Honors

i. Composition. The Faculty Committee on Honors (FCH) shall consist of five faculty members who shall be appointed for staggered terms of three years each by majority vote of the Senate upon nomination by the Executive Committee. The five members shall be selected from each of the five Rensselaer Schools: Architecture, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, and Management. The members of the FCC shall elect the Chair of the FCH from among themselves.

ii. Duties.

   a. The Faculty Committee on Honors (FCH) shall, through the offices of the Rensselaer Provost, issue a public call for nominations, evaluate, and select candidates for specific honors. The FCH Chair shall communicate each selection to the Provost. Selections are subject to approval by the President and the Rensselaer Board of Trustees.

Awards/Grants for which FCH are responsible include the following: The Early Career Award, the Jerome Fischbach ’38 Faculty Travel Grant, and the William H. Wiley 1866 Distinguished Faculty Award.

   b. The Faculty Committee on Honors (FCH), through the offices of the Rensselaer President, shall also evaluate, rank, and recommend to the Rensselaer President’s Committee on Honors (PCH) the candidates for the following year’s Commencement Speaker and Honorary Doctor’s Degrees candidates.

The FCH Chair shall communicate these rankings and recommendations to the Chair of the President’s Committee on Honors. The FCH Chair will serve as a member of the PCH.

G. Standing Committees

Faculty governance is a complex issue, and it is important to maintain flexibility in the actions of the governing body. The Faculty Senate shall maintain standing committees from its membership as it sees fit. These committees shall investigate issues involving education, research, the role of the faculty, and other issues as they arise.

H. Institute-wide Committees

Committees offer an efficient means of gathering information and conducting business on many issues. However, Faculty time is valuable. Committees having insufficient power or reason for existence should not be formed, and committees having accomplished their business should cease to exist. The Executive Committee shall facilitate and coordinate the appointment of Faculty to Institute-wide committees. The Executive Committee shall also conduct an annual review of the Institute-wide committees. Upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee, the Senate shall renew the charge for each Institute-wide committee, or direct that it be disbanded.

IV. Elections

Election to the Senate shall be by ballot of the Faculty, as defined in Section II.A.i, during the Grand Marshal Week in the spring semester. For the purpose of voting, an eligible voter must maintain a campus email address. At the time of retirement or no later than 30 days prior to an election, a retired faculty member may register with the Secretary of the Faculty to vote using a campus email address. The role of eligible voters shall be maintained by the Secretary of the Faculty. The Election Committee shall conduct the election and report on it to the Senate at the first Senate meeting after the polls are closed. The Senate shall, by a majority vote of the members present and voting, accept the results of the election. In case two or more candidates receive the same number of votes in the election, the Senate shall vote by secret ballot to break the tie. If the result of any contest in the election is not accepted by the Senate, the election to that contest shall be declared invalid, and the Election Committee shall, at the earliest possible opportunity, conduct a supplementary election to fill the positions for which the election was invalidated.

All duly elected members of the Faculty Senate and its Committees assume office at the end of the last regular Senate meeting during the semester in which the election is ratified, with the exception of the members of the Promotion and Tenure Committee, who shall take office at the beginning of the fall semester.

When an elected member or officer is unable to assume office or to complete a term, the person will be replaced for the duration of that term by the next ranking nominee for that position in the last-held election. If no ranking nominee is available to serve, the Senate shall either elect a replacement by majority vote, schedule a special election to elect a replacement, or allow the position to remain vacant until the next general Faculty Senate election; and a replacement for the duration of the term, if any, will be selected by ballot as part of the regular election process.

V. Grievances
The Faculty Senate shall not act as a grievance body. If general policy issues arise out of individual Faculty grievances, however, the Faculty Senate shall act in a constructive manner to assist Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute to develop policies that minimize future grievances.

VI. Policies, Rules, and Procedures

The Faculty Senate shall initiate, study, and make recommendations for the benefit of the Faculty and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Matters will be debated and refined by the Senate. Authority over all Senate business rests in the Faculty, and major actions affecting the Faculty shall be considered by the entire Faculty at General Faculty meetings. The Senate shall communicate its deliberations to the Faculty through its Minutes. Resolutions of the Senate shall reflect the wishes of the Faculty, and are intended to be implemented.

A. The Faculty Senate shall conduct its business according to The Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure (Sturgis. 1988).

B. The President of the Senate shall call an open meeting of the Senate at least once each month during the academic year. All formal action taken by the Senate shall take place at open meetings previously announced to the Faculty.

C. Two thirds of the members of the Senate shall constitute a quorum.

D. Any member of the Faculty has the right to appear before the Senate at her or his request. The Faculty member requesting the appearance may also request that it take place in closed session.

E. A Senator or an Officer of the Senate can be recalled by a 2/3 vote of the Faculty. In order to initiate such a vote, a petition with signatures of at least 1/10 of the Faculty should be presented to the Senate. The recall election shall be conducted by the Election Committee within three weeks of the submission of the petition.

F. This Constitution may be amended by the following procedure: A Proposal for amendment must be circulated to the Faculty over the signatures of at least 1/20 of the Faculty at least thirty days before a general meeting of the Faculty at which the proposal will be discussed. Voting shall be by mail ballot, conducted by the Secretary of the Senate. Adoption of amendments requires a two-thirds majority of those voting and subsequent endorsement by the President and the Board of Trustees. No amendment to this Constitution shall be in disagreement with the Institute's Acts of Incorporation or the Institute Bylaws.

G. The Faculty Handbook shall be the Rules and Regulations of the Faculty. The Handbook shall be reviewed annually. Handbook revisions require a majority vote of the Faculty Senate, approval of the Provost, and the concurrence of the President of the Institute.
VII. General Faculty Meetings

Issues of importance to the general Faculty should be brought before the Faculty at a general meeting. The Executive Committee shall call a regular meeting of the general Faculty each fall and spring. An agenda for a regular meeting shall be prepared by the Executive Committee, with the advice of the Senate, and distributed to the Faculty one week before the meeting. Each meeting shall include a report from the President of the Senate on Senate business and a report from the Chair of the Faculty on past and future issues affecting Faculty. A quorum for the meetings shall consist of 1/10 of the Faculty. The fall meeting shall include a report from the President of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and the spring meeting shall include a report from the Dean of Faculty. Minutes of the general Faculty meetings will be approved by the Faculty Senate for accuracy and distributed with Faculty Senate minutes.

Issues of pressing importance can be brought before a special meeting of the general Faculty. Special meetings of the Faculty can be called by the Executive Committee, or by a majority vote of the Senate, or by petition from the general Faculty with the signatures of 1/15 of the Faculty.
